Northeastern Cartoonist Says Idea Hardest Part

By MILAN WALL

Star Staff Writer

"The hardest part is getting the idea."

"Once you get it, the drawing is pretty easy."

That's how a Northeast High School senior views what he calls his "biggest interest" at the moment — drawing cartoons.

John Bills' cartoons have appeared this year in the school's student newspaper, the Northeastern.

Cartoonist For 3 Years

At 18, John, who plans to major in art next year at the University of Nebraska, said he has had an interest in art for a number of years. He's been drawing cartoons for the last three.

The cartoonist, John noted, "does the thinking for a lot of people" by shedding light and humor on modern problems.

"I try to keep up with current events," he said. "Most big cartoonists take things from the front page."

You Have To Keep Up

"You really have to keep up with what happens."

Success comes, he said, when the cartoonist "really hits home" on an issue with the insight of the mind and the skill of the pen.

The cartoonist "tries to get people to think," he said. "That's the matter with a lot of people these days."

A recent effort depicts a woman general and two GIs with the caption, "Why not? They run everything else."

"Against Women's Liberation" John said he will be "draftable pretty soon" and added he is "pretty much against women's liberation."

So, he continued, "if women want something to do, that's it."

Bills . . . He's been cartooning three years.

"Let them go to war."

John said he usually does two sketches before his final pen-and-ink draft.

"Runs Into Hundreds"

His total production, what with doodling and such, "probably runs into the hundreds," he added.

"Most are for my own use," he said, drafted while "I'm just goofing around."

John said he sees a future with perhaps more cartooning, or graphic design and illustration.

"I've always liked to draw," he said.

"I guess my personality makes me draw cartoons."

5 Republicans Join Fast-Pullout Effort

Washington (AP) — Fast-spreading sentiment in Congress for ending the Vietnam war received new impetus Friday as five House Republicans joined the effort to pull out all U.S. troops by the end of the year.

In a letter to their House colleagues, the GOP members said the United States has fulfilled its commitment to South Vietnam and should leave.

It was signed by Reps. R. Lawrence Coughlin of Pennsylvania, Marvin L. Esch of Michigan, Gilbert Gude of Maryland, F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts and Charles A. Mosher of Ohio.

The letter is an indication of a dramatic shift taking place in the House on the war issue. Just last Monday, efforts to get Republicans to sign a similar letter failed and it went out as a Democratic appeal instead of a bipartisan one.

Deep Desire Disclosed

The conviction of Lt. William L. Calley for murder at My Lai and a highly charged three-day debate on extension of the draft have disclosed a deep desire in the House for an end to the war. Except for Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., who has threatened a primary election challenge against President Nixon if the war is still going on next year, House Republicans have been reluctant to join the antiwar forces, at least openly.

The new GOP letter declares Congress and the President are in agreement on the goal of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and praises Nixon for substantially reducing the number of U.S. troops there.

But, the five Republicans say, Congress also shares with the President the responsibility for carrying out that policy.

"Mounting citizen concern about our role in the tragic Indochina war has dramatically swelled the ranks of those Americans favoring an early withdrawal of U.S. military forces," says their letter.

Fast End Wanted

"No longer can there be any doubt that an overwhelming majority want this war to end as soon as possible. Congress has the unique responsibility to channel that feeling into responsible legislative action to end the war."

Accompanying the letter is a statement which members are invited to join. It pledges those who sign it to work and vote for responsible legislation aimed at ending all U.S. military involvement in Indochina this year.

During the four days the Democratic letter has been in circulation it has picked up 40 signatures. The Republican letter, which went out Friday, had six early signers, in addition to the original five.

Exon Asks For Review Of Officer Assault Bills

By DON WALTON

Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Friday asked the Legislature's Judiciary Committee to reconsider its action rejecting two proposals designed to sharpen penalties for assaulting or killing peace officers.

The bills were buried by the committee earlier this week despite a personal plea from Exon for their enactment.

Exon released copies of a letter to two committee members, Sens. Fred Carstens of Beatrice and P. J. Morgan of Omaha, thanking them for their assistance in seeking reconsideration of the measures.

Luedtke Criticized

At the same time, the governor criticized the committee's chairman, Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, for what Exon called "inaccurate" statements suggesting that the bills were vague and improperly drafted.

The proposals, LB1004 and LB1005 were introduced at the governor's request and Exon testified in behalf of the measures in only his second appearance before a legislative committee.

LB1004 proposed imprisonment for 10 to 50 years for anyone found guilty of assaulting a law enforcement officer or guard with a deadly weapon.

At Least 50 Years

LB1005 proposed that anyone sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering a law enforcement officer or guard would be ineligible for parole until he has served 50 years in the Penal Complex.

"The obvious intent of both bills is to strengthen our present laws so as to afford our law enforcement officers adequate protection," Exon wrote Carstens and Morgan.

"The penalties must be sufficient to cause a violator to think long and hard before assaulting or killing a police officer. The suggestion by the chairman that the court now throws the book at such violators is not borne out by the facts."

Exon said there is "neither need nor time to conduct a study" of the matter as suggested by Luedtke.

"If the committee philosophically opposes the intent of these two bills, then I believe it should publicly make that statement rather than attempting to kill the bills on the pretext of their language," the governor declared.

Meeting Offered

Exon said his legal counsel, Norman Krivosha, can meet with the committee if it wishes "to explain any legal technical questions you may have or any legal technicalities that you believe might exist."

The two bills were killed on a unanimous 6-0 committee vote following a public hearing last Tuesday.

(Earlier Friday, in a Law Day luncheon speech, Exon criticized as too mild the present penalty for assaulting a police officer. The penalty ranges from $1,000 to $5,000 in fines, or one to five years imprisonment, or both.)

On another matter, the governor said he will "reserve opinion at this time" on the proposed five-cent hike in state cigarette taxes to fund a new state office building and a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse.

ROTHBLATT . . . with client Henderson, right.

Henderson To Deny Coverup Of My Lai

Ft. Meade, Md. (UPI) — Col. Oran K. Henderson, highest ranking officer to face trial in connection with the My Lai massacre, will plead innocent to charges he took part in an alleged coverup, his civilian lawyer said Friday.

Henry A. Rothblatt, a New York attorney, told newsmen "I cannot help but wonder whose reputation is being protected at Col. Henderson's expense, but we intend to find out."

At the start of a pretrial hearing in a tiny courtroom at 1st Army Headquarters in this base between Washington and Baltimore, Rothblatt said he would "bombard the court with motions" in an attempt to win dismissal of the charges against Henderson.

The charges against Henderson — one of dereliction of duty for not conducting a "proper and thorough investigation" of the My Lai sweep and two counts of making false statements at a Pentagon inquiry — "are totally unfounded in fact and the Army knows it," Rothblatt said.

Henderson, 50, commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade that took part in the My Lai sweep three years ago, appeared tense as he replied crisply and courteously to questioning Friday by the Judge, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski.

Public-Service Jobs Bill Faces Nixon Veto

(C) Washington Star

Washington — President Nixon will veto any public-service job legislation of the kind passed Thursday by the Senate, Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., said Friday.

Dominick was the leader of pro-administration Republicans who attempted first to table and then to amend the bill, which is designed to provide an immediate 150,000 municipal jobs throughout the nation.

When these attempts failed, liberal Democrats led the bill to an easy final approval, 62-to-10.

"If this is the bill that will go to the White House, the President will veto it," Dominick said Friday.

In the House are three versions of an emergency public-service bill, each sponsored by a Democrat and each similar to the one the Senate passed. Quick action is expected.

The Democrats' strategy is clear. In forcing Nixon's hand, they can claim credit for helping the unemployed. In case of a veto, they have a clear target.

Last December, Nixon vetoed a comprehensive manpower reform bill, part of which he had proposed, because Democrats had included a program to put people to work in such public-service jobs as hospital, school, recreation, police and sanitation.

Since then, Nixon has said he would accept public-service jobs, but only as part of welfare reform or as part of the revenue-sharing manpower-reform bill he proposed some weeks ago.

The legislation passed by the Senate authorizes up to $1.7 billion over two years for the single purpose of public-service employment.

Slicing Cost Is Object

. . . $300 Million

Washington (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee has tentatively approved a modified version of a previously undisclosed administration proposal to cut sharply the government's share of payments for long-term hospitalization of medicare patients, it was learned Friday.

Congressional sources said the committee voted to give medicare patients 14 days of fully government-paid hospitalization instead of the present 59. The administration had sought to cut this period to nine days.

$300 Million A Year

The committee's provision would save an estimated $300 million a year. The administration, seeking to trim skyrocketing medicare costs, had submitted a plan to cut federal costs by $450 million a year by requiring medicare patients to pay for a larger share of their hospitalization.

Such a change, if adopted, would hit hardest at the chronically and most seriously ill.

Medicare is the government's hospital and doctors' insurance program for those over 65.

The committee tentatively approved its version of a cutback Thursday. It also gave initial approval to another administration request for an automatic raise in the maximum payment medicare patients pay toward their doctors' bills whenever physicians raise their fees.

The present maximum payment for this is $50. Under the proposal, a 10% increase in doctors' fees would raise the maximum to $55.

Controversy Likely

The proposed changes are likely to stir a storm of controversy. Liberal congressmen and those under medicare are sure to fight the reduced hospitalization benefits and doctors were expected to oppose the change in maximum fee payments.

Prospects were cloudy that the proposed change would win approval in the Democratic-controlled Congress.

The administration proposed to the committee that medicare patients pay one-eighth of their daily hospital costs between the 11th and 60th days of hospitalization.

Presently, the patient only pays for the first day based on the national average hospital cost — currently $60 — and then pays one-fourth of the daily costs after the 60th day.

$7.50 A Day

The committee compromised with the administration, sources said, and agreed tentatively to require patients to pay one-eighth of the cost between the 15th and 60th days. Based on current costs, this would amount to $7.50 a day or $337.50 between the 15th and 60th days.

The administration's original proposal would have cost long-term patients an extra total of $375.

Under present law, medicare patients who stay longer than 60 days must pay one-fourth of the daily costs. This would remain unchanged under the proposal.

Limit Tentative

In another action, the committee tentatively agreed to limit the medicare fee which those over 65 pay for coverage of doctors' services.

The committee said the monthly payment should not be any more than increases in Social Security.

The monthly fee is now $5.30 and will go to $5.60 in July. If Social Security benefits increased 10%, the monthly fee could not go up by more than 56 cents.

About 20 million elderly persons were covered under medicare during 1970. The federal government paid about $5.1 billion in hospital costs and $2 billion in doctors' bills.

Ten Who Knew Jesus

Fourth of a Series

By JOHN J. STEWART

Like so many other men, Nicodemus was a man who would like to have done right, but never quite had the courage of his convictions.

Nicodemus had greatly admired Jesus of Nazareth. He believed what He taught, or much of it anyway. "We know that Thou art a teacher come from God," he had said to Him. "For no man can do these miracles that Thou doest, except God be with him." But Nicodemus could never bring himself to forgo the comfortable circumstances that he enjoyed as a Pharisee.

The requirement that Jesus made of his disciples was too great for Nicodemus: "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."

Nicodemus had not favored putting Jesus to death, as did most of his colleagues. But neither did he have the moral courage to cry out in His defense, as he would like to have done.

Pricked by his own cowardice, by his sense of wrong done to an innocent and good man, Nicodemus had watched in horror as Jesus was crucified.

Another man of wealth, Joseph of Arimathea, found himself in much the same situation as Nicodemus. He too had believed in Jesus of Nazareth, but found it too difficult to become a real disciple, thus endangering his wealth and position.

Now upon the death of Jesus, Joseph of Arimathea got Pontius Pilate's permission to "take away the body of Jesus." He and Nicodemus together took the body of Jesus down from the cross, wrapped it in fine linen, with spices which Nicodemus had brought, "a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight," and buried Jesus in a tomb near Calvary, "wherein was never man yet laid."

The emptiness that Nicodemus felt as he walked away from the tomb was the spiritual emptiness of a man who had failed to live by the light which had been offered to him.

Yet, there was a ray of hope in his heart too, as he recalled the interview with the Master that night he had gone secretly, under cloak of darkness, to visit Him and learn more of Him. It was to Nicodemus that Jesus had spoken these gracious words of encouragement:

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

"For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved."

Jerusalem — Two influential Israeli cabinet members Friday indicated a willingness to reach an agreement with the United Arab republic on the reopening of the Suez Canal, but not on terms proposed by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. It was also evident that the United States would assume the role of intermediary in the talks rather than United Nations envoy Gunnar Jarring.

Arms Aimed At Israeli Jets

Beirut — Western experts believe that the heavy build-up of Soviet arms deliveries to Egypt is aimed at neutralizing any offensive action by the Israeli air force. The goal of the build-up seems to be the erection of an air defense shield along the Nile Valley with particular at-

California Wins Reprieve

San Clemente, Calif. — California was given another reprieve from threats to cut off about $684 million in federal welfare contributions after a long meeting between Gov. Ronald Reagan and President Nixon. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has judged that the state is not complying with regulations requiring it to make cost-of-living adjustments in welfare payments.

New York State Budget OK'd

Albany, N.Y. — A $7.7 billion state budget was finally passed by the New York Legislature after a quarrelsome, night-long debate. The budget contains sales and business tax increases and sharp cuts in welfare aid. The legislators then turned to a series of bills aimed, in part, at tightening control over education — part of the price extracted to get the budget passed. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the battle over his budget was not yet over, but did concede that conservative Republican legislators had gotten the price they demanded.

Army Terms Calley Trial 'Moral, Legal Obligation'

Washington (UPI) — The Army Friday defended the trial and conviction of Lt. William L. Calley as "a moral and legal obligation."

"Even though the legal action was painful and difficult, the Army would have failed to meet its obligation to the laws of our Nation had it not acted," the service said in a four-page white paper on the controversial court-martial.

The position paper said the Geneva Conventions obligated the U.S. military "to search for persons alleged to have committed or to have ordered to be committed . . . grave breaches, and shall bring such persons, regardless of their na-

Westmoreland Feels No Guilt

Lubbock, Tex. (UPI) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland said Friday it is absurd to accuse him of sharing the guilt for Lt. William Calley's conduct at My Lai.

"No, I feel no guilt — not in the least," the U.S. Army chief of staff and former commander in South Vietnam said at a news conference.

tionality, before its own courts."

Force Of Law

It said the Geneva Convention carries equal force with laws enacted by Congress because as treaties they are constitutionally part of the law.

The white paper encompassed all of the investigations and charges related to the killing of more than 100 Vietnamese men, women, and children three years ago at My Lai and did not relate to Calley alone.

But it was issued amid a wave of outrage over Calley's conviction of premeditated murder in 22 deaths at My Lai and his sentence to life imprisonment.

Telegrams and telephone calls have flooded the Pentagon demanding Calley's release, and GIs in Vietnam and around the world have said he got a raw deal.

An Army spokesman called the document "a white paper on My Lai." Another said, "It amounts to telling the Army why we did this, why we had the trial."

Pvt. Schwarz Out Of Prison

Portsmouth, N.H. (UPI) — Marine Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz of Weirton, W. Va., convicted of murdering 12 Vietnamese women and children near Da Nang in February 1970, was released Friday from the Portsmouth Naval Prison.

Schwarz left the prison en route to the Quantico, Va. Marine Corps base where he was due to report by 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

Schwarz, who was a member of a five-man search and destroy patrol at the time of the incident, was originally sentenced to life imprisonment by a court-martial in Vietnam.

That sentence was later reduced to one-year imprisonment, a dishonorable discharge, and loss of pay and allowance by the convening authority in Da Nang.

The Army said it planned to distribute the white paper to every U.S. Army base in the world.

Importance, Weight

"Throughout the Vietnam War, the Geneva Conventions have had far more importance and weight than mere guides of conduct or courtesy on the battlefield," the paper said. "They cannot be abandoned and adopted again at will by the United States armed forces, depending upon the character of the conflict or the non-observance of the conventions by the enemy."

Calley was one of 13 officers and enlisted men originally charged after an investigation into the My Lai incident, which was triggered by a letter from former GI Ronald L. Ridenhour in April 1969.

After the investigation, charges were dismissed against eight of the men and two others are awaiting trial. They are Capt. Ernest L. Medina and Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc.

Two enlisted men, Staff Sgt. David Mitchell and Sgt. Charles R. Hutto, were tried and found innocent.

"In all these cases we went as far as we could and as far as the evidence supported," an Army spokesman said. "In the case of Lt. Calley, we had an overwhelming body of evidence."

Louis Armstrong Reported Critical

New York (AP) — Jazz trumpeter Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, 70, was reported in "critical" condition at a hospital Friday with recurrent heart and breathing ailments.

A spokesman at Beth Israel Hospital said Armstrong was showing "marked difficulty" in breathing and had been placed on a mechanical respirator in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Armstrong, under intensive care since March 15, suffered the setback Thursday night with increased respiratory difficulty and was "weakened generally," the spokesman said.

WALLACE VISITS CALLEY

Alabama Gov. George Wallace paid a visit Friday to Lt. William Calley Jr. at his Ft. Benning, Ga., quarters. "I believe President Nixon is going to do the right thing and the right thing is to grant clemency to Lt. Calley," Wallace told reporters as he emerged from a 13-minute chat with Calley, barely discernible behind screen door.

Colombo's Attorney Claims Government Phones Bugged

New York (UPI) — Joseph Colombo Sr., reputed underworld leader and crusader against the use of the term mafia, was arrested Friday on charges of operating a multi-million dollar policy ring.

The 47-year-old Colombo was released on $25,000 bail after a stormy arraignment during which his lawyer claimed he had advanced knowledge of the arrest because government telephones had been tapped and also likened U.S. Attorney General John N. Mitchell to Nazi leader Heinrich Himmler.

The FBI said Colombo was one of 38 persons for whom warrants had been issued in connection with "one of the largest policy rings in the metropolitan New York area." The ring was centered in Brooklyn and Manhattan, according to the FBI.

When Denis Dillon, head of the Federal Organized Crime Strike Force for the Eastern District, asked U.S. Magistrate Vincent Catogio to set bail at $100,000, there was an angry retort from Colombo's lawyer, Jacob Lefkowitz.

"He has been directed by Heinrich Himmler Mitchell of Washington to make this request for such bail," Lefkowitz said.

Colombo smiled thinly as Dillon asked the court to direct Lefkowitz to avoid injecting personalities into the proceeding.

Lefkowitz, in asking that bail be set at a lower figure, said that Colombo had always appeared in court when ordered to do so.

Dillon interjected to say that Assistant U.S. Atty. Joseph Lynch received a call from Lefkowitz's office Friday even before the warrant was processed, "leading us to suspect there was a leak."

Lefkowitz retorted, "That's right, there was a leak. There was a tap on your line Mr. Dillon. That's how we knew."

Unemployment Rises To 6%

Washington (UPI) — Unemployment in the United States rose in March to 6%, reversing two months of gradual decline, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) reported Friday.

BLS Commissioner Geoffrey H. Moore, summoned to Capitol Hill to explain the figure, said the increase over February's unemployment rate is "not inconsistent" with the economy's slow recovery from the business slump of 1969 and 1970.

But he also said it was "approximately right" to speculate that unemployment has now leveled off at about 6% — with somewhat more than 5 million Americans — including 2.2 million who had lost their jobs looking for but unable to find work.

The total number of Americans with jobs was unchanged in March at 78.5 million. The increase in the rate of joblessness resulted mainly among 16 to 24 year olds, many of them entering the labor force for the first time. The unemployment rate for teenagers soared to 17.85% last month, for example.

Democrats cited the higher jobless figure as "but one indicator of the results of the president's misguided, dehumanized approach to the economy."

The report was a setback to administration hopes of driving unemployment down to 5% by the end of the year and to 4.5% by mid-1972 — and without rekindling runaway inflation.

But Moore said improvement in the employment picture always lags behind other signs of an economic upturn. He pointed to an increase in the work week as a hopeful sign.

Moore and other nonpolitical experts in his bureau were asked to appear before the House-Senate Economic Committee because the Nixon administration last month dropped the 11-year-old custom of having them hold press briefings to spell out the significance behind their raw data.

Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., said that decision was "apparently in imitation of the medieval custom of shooting the messenger who brought the bad news."

Proxmire said the increase showed stagnation and contended that Congress would want to cut taxes to give the economy a $4.5 billion shot in the arm if unemployment doesn't improve this spring.

GIs Almost All Out Of Khe Sanh

Saigon (UPI) — Withdrawing U.S. troops all but abandoned the Khe Sanh base Friday two months after opening it as the springboard for South Vietnam's Laos offensive.

American jets attacked Communist truck and tank traffic in Laos which had been pinpointed by a commando raid.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon declined comment on Radio Hanoi reports that five Americans were captured by Communist forces in a battle at Fire Base 6 near the point where the borders of South Vietnamese Cambodia and Laos meet. But field reports listed six Americans killed or missing in combat Wednesday.

South Vietnamese headquarters said Saigon troops reoccupied Fire Base 6 after losing it in a Communist assault that cost 20 South Vietnamese killed and 25 wounded. North Vietnamese losses were placed at 280 men killed. One American was reported killed and one wounded when Communist gunners shot down two helicopters trying to rescue South Vietnamese defenders of the base 280 miles northeast of Saigon near Dak To.

UPI photographer Dave Kennerly said Khe Sanh, 12 miles inside South Vietnam from the Laotian border, was almost a wasteland Friday as the last American forces pulled out.

State FFA Continuing All Male Membership

... Exon Asks Aid In Solving Food Problem

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Those fine young men in blue jackets do like girls but not quite enough to permit girls to be recognized as members of the state Future Farmers of America association.

The vote at Friday's business session at the state convention of the Nebraska FFA was 114 for admission 187 against.

It takes a two-thirds majority to change the constitution to allow girls to become full members of the state organization.

Last year the national organization recognized girls as voting members and a number of Nebraska chapters do have girls who are members. However, the girls cannot participate in state activities.

The delegates applauded Gov. J. James Exon after a brief address in which Exon asked for their help in formulating some sort of "new thoughts and new ideas to solve the food problem."

"The politicians have been rehabbing the farm programs for 40 years and haven't solved the farm problem," the governor said. "We need a new phrasology. Instead of the farm problem let's talk about the food problem," he said.

Food, Fiber Board
Exon called for the establishment of a national food and fiber board that would do for agriculture what the Federal Reserve Board has done for the financial industry.

"I am not asking to make agriculture a utility," Exon said. "But we must get to the point where we act instead of react to this food problem. People in Chicago react to a food problem much quicker than they will to a farm problem."

Exon called Wayne Humphries, Crawfordsville, Iowa, national FFA vice president, to the podium and presented him with a certificate making him an admiral in the Nebraska Navy.

The Knights of the Ak-Sar-Ben presented checks to the top 12 chapters in the state.

Given checks for $75 were the chapters from St. Edward, Kimball, Ainsworth, and Waverly. Checks for $50 went to Wilber, Grant, Verdigris, and Blue Hill chapters. Checks for $25 went to Imperial, Holbrook, Sargent and Bassett chapters.

The Knights also passed out $50 checks to 20 individual members for outstanding achievements in livestock development and farm betterment.

The Ainsworth chapter took top team honors with a demonstration on modern beef management.

Jim Kramer of Fullerton won the creed speaking contest; Keith Johnson of York placed first in public speaking; Ruben Bergman of Elgin, placed first in wildlife speaking.

The West Point Chapter received the top cooperative award consisting of a trophy and a check for $100.

FFA Foundation awards went to the St. Edward chapter for a Building Our American Communities (BOAC) program. BOAC is a national program administered by the FFA in cooperation with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A new foundation award for processing went to Larry Konz of Newman Grove. Konz has worked at the Newman Grove Co-op Creamery since 1968.

Woodard First
Ervin Woodard of the Crete FFA chapter won first place in the metals judging contest.

David Ortman of the North Loup-Scottia FFA won the top individual ribbon in the farm management competition.

Thirteen vocational agriculture teams led by Nebraska City received blue ribbons in the meat judging and identification contest. In individual competition, Dwight Miller of North Platte placed first followed by Cindy Goldapp of Omaha Burke.

The chapters receiving blue ribbons in the meat judging and identification contest were Nebraska City; Ord; Wilber; Central; Kimball County; Lyons; Palmyra; Omaha Burke; Pierce; North Platte; Waverly; Sioux County; and Central City.

Police Probe Death Of Lincoln Man

Lincoln police were investigating the death of an elderly Lincoln man Friday afternoon in his home at 2220 Q St.

Witnesses reported that the man, identified by police as George Phillips, appeared to have been beaten, and Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said that "foul play" may have been involved.

Police Friday night would say only that two men had been taken into custody in connection with the incident.

Legislature Gets 11 Bills Moved During Afternoon

The Legislature reconvened Friday afternoon and managed to move 11 bills from general file before the legislative wheel ground to a halt.

Thirty-one senators registered their presence at the start of the afternoon session, but most bills were advanced with only a bare majority of 25 approving votes.

The measures advanced were taken from a list of bills determined non-controversial by Speaker William Hasebroock of West Point.

No committee hearings are scheduled next week, and the Legislature is expected to meet both morning and afternoon.

Bill To Enlarge Unicameral Investing Power Is Killed

A proposed constitutional amendment which its sponsor said would "slightly" enlarge existing powers of the Legislature to make investments was killed Friday by the Unicameral's Retirement Systems Committee.

The bill killed was LB501 sponsored by Sens. William Hasebroock of West Point, George Syas of Omaha and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

The amendment would invest "slightly" more power in the Legislature to make investments, including retirement funds, according to Whitney.

Verdon Crash Kills Omahan

Verdon (UPI) — Gerald L. Gibson, 57, Omaha, was killed Friday afternoon when his semi-trailer truck crashed just east of Verdon on U.S. 73.

The Nebraska Patrol said Gibson died at the scene.

Nebraskan Dies In Kansas Crash

Hays, Kan. (UPI) — Mrs. Margaret Cook, Scottsbluff, Neb., was killed Thursday when a car in which she was riding was struck from behind on Interstate 70, about three miles east of here.

The dead woman's husband, Leonard R. Cook, Sr., 52, driver of the car, was in serious condition at a Hays hospital at last report.

The Highway Patrol said the Cook car was struck by one driven by Robert L. Petschonek, 17, of St. Louis. Petschonek was not injured.

Judge Orders Inmate's Mail Be Left Alone

By The Associated Press
Federal District Judge Warren Urbom has ruled that prison officials may not open mail exchanged by a Lincoln attorney and his inmate-client, who is questioning the rules and regulations of the prison.

The case bears on the confidentiality of the attorney-client relationship. The order emphasizes the decision is of limited scope in that it applies only to Fredric H. Kauffman, a court-appointed attorney representing inmate Robert O. McConnell and only for the duration of the case. Urbom's temporary injunction prohibits censorship of McConnell's mail.

The Nebraska attorney general's office, representing the prison, has asked for reconsideration and been granted a hearing scheduled for April 12.

In a pleading filed with the court, the prison said censorship is necessary to prevent contraband or escape plans from being smuggled in. Urbom discounted this possibility in the case of attorneys who are "officers of the court bound by oaths."

Peterson Pledges Youth Committee

Mayoral candidate Erv Peterson said Friday if elected he would create a Youth Advisory Committee and ask it to meet with him monthly to review city programs and policies.

"There have been several attempts to channel the thoughts and ideas of younger people in our community into city governments. But I think more emphasis is needed in this area," Peterson said.

He said he will initiate the youth program with high schools, colleges and universities in the city.

Sikyta Suggests NE Park Action

An announced and projected development plan for the new Northeast Park must be a part of the program for city government, City Council candidate Fred R. (Bob) Sikyta said Friday.

"It's unfair unfair to both the citizens of north and east Lincoln, as well as to the rest of the city, to keep this project in limbo," Sikyta said.

He said that the city should balance expenditures among the various sections of the city, "because all parts deserve good parks and recreation facilities."

Omaha Central Again Math Contest Winner

Omaha (AP) — Central High School of Omaha captured both team and individual honors for the second year in a row, in the Nebraska and South Dakota regional division of the National mathematics contest.

The region's top scorer, Howard Z. Marshall, also was on the Central team, with 86.25 points out of a possible 150.

It is the 12th time in 14 years that the Central team outscores all other competing teams.

Joining Marshall on the national honor roll for scores of 80 or more were Lawrence Denenberg, with 83.25 points and David Leavitt of Lincoln Northeast with a score of 83. The others of the top 20 state teams were Lincoln Northeast, Bellevue, Omaha Rummel, Omaha Burke, Omaha Westside, Omaha North, Holdrege, Kearney, Lincoln Southeast, Norfolk, Scottsbluff, Lincoln, Geneva, Benson, Lincoln East, Omaha Creighton Prep, Omaha South, Auburn and Nebraska City.

3 Policemen Describe Night Patrolman Killed

Omaha (AP) — Three policemen who were with Patrolman Larry D. Minard when he was killed in a booby trap explosion at a vacant house last Aug. 17 described the fatal night Friday.

The three were prosecution witnesses in the first degree murder trial of David L. Rice and Edward Poindexter for Minard's death.

When he started the questioning of Patrolman Kenneth J. Tworek, County Attorney Donald Knowles placed an enlarged photo of Minard's body as it lay inside the house beside the witness stand. Defense objections to display of this picture in the presence of the jury were overruled.

Tworek was allowed to testify about the condition of Minard's body, but Judge Donald Hamilton upheld a defense objection to similar testimony from Patrolman Paul Rust, commenting it was "cumulative."

The third patrolman, Michael Lamson, testified how the three answered a call to the house to investigate a report of a "woman screaming."

Saw Suitcase
Lamson said when he saw a suitcase on its side lying diagonally in the front doorway, he commented that "Maybe there really is a girl inside the house."

He said he and the other officers stepped over the suitcase and began their search.

Patrolman Dennis Moran, who was Minard's partner, said he and Minard drove to the house as a "backup" car and they started around opposite sides of the boarded up house. That was the last time he saw Minard alive, Moran said.

He said he was outside talking to a caretaker when the explosion occurred.

County Attorney Knowles said that Duane Christopher Peak, 16, the state's chief witness and who is also charged with first degree murder, will testify early next week.

Vote for the man that everyone knows.

State FFA Continuing All Male Membership

... Exon Asks Aid In Solving Food Problem

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Those fine young men in blue jackets do like girls but not quite enough to permit girls to be recognized as members of the state Future Farmers' of America association.

The vote at Friday's business session at the state convention of the Nebraska FFA was 114 for admission 187 against.

It takes a two-thirds majority to change the constitution to allow girls to become full members of the state organization.

Last year the national organization recognized girls as voting members and a number of Nebraska chapters do have girls who are members. However, the girls cannot participate in state activities.

The delegates applauded Gov. J. James Exon after a brief address in which Exon asked for their help in formulating some sort of "new thoughts and new ideas to solve the food problem."

"The politicians have been rehashing the farm programs for 40 years and haven't solved the farm problem," the governor said. "We need a new phrasology. Instead of the farm problem let's talk about the food problem," he said.

Nebraska News

Food, Fiber Board
Exon called for the establishment of a national food and fiber board that would do for agriculture what the Federal Reserve Board has done for the financial industry.

"I am not asking to make agriculture a utility," Exon said. "But we must get to the point where we act instead of react to this food problem. People in Chicago react to a food problem much quicker than they will to a farm problem."

Exon called Wayne Humphries, Crawfordville, Iowa, national FFA vice president, to the podium and presented him with a certificate making him an admiral in the Nebraska Navy.

The Knights of the Ak-Sar-Ben presented checks to the top 12 chapters in the state.

Given checks for $75 were the chapters from St. Edward, Kimball, Ainsworth, and Waverly. Checks for $50 went to Wilber, Grant, Verdigris, and Blue Hill chapters. Checks for $25 went to Imperial, Holbrook, Sargent and Bassett chapters.

The Knights also passed out $50 checks to 20 individual members for outstanding achievements in livestock development and farm betterment.

The Ainsworth chapter took top team honors with a demonstration on modern beef management.

Jim Kramer of Fullerton won the creed speaking contest; Keith Johnson of York placed first in public speaking; Ruben Bergman of Elgin, placed first in wildlife speaking.

The West Point Chapter received the top cooperative award consisting of a trophy and a check for $100.

FFA Foundation awards went to the St. Edward chapter for a Building Our American Communities (BOAC) program. BOAC is a national program administered by the FFA in cooperation with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A new foundation award for processing went to Larry Konz of Newman Grove. Konz has worked at the Newman Grove Co-op Creamery since 1968.

Woodard First
Ervin Woodard of the Crete FFA chapter won first place in the metals judging contest.

David Ortman of the North Loup-Scotia FFA won the top individual ribbon in the farm management competition.

Thirteen vocational agriculture teams led by Nebraska City received blue ribbons in the meat judging and identification contest. In individual competition, Dwight Miller of North Platte placed first followed by Cindy Goldapp of Omaha Burke.

The chapters receiving blue ribbons in the meat judging and identification contest were Nebraska City; Ord; Wilber; Central; Kimball County; Lyons; Palmyra; Omaha Burke; Pierce; North Platte; Waverly; Sioux County; and Central City.

Police Probe Death Of Lincoln Man

Lincoln police were investigating the death of an elderly Lincoln man Friday afternoon in his home at 2220 Q St.

Witnesses reported that the man, identified by police as George Phillips, appeared to have been beaten, and Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said that "foul play" may have been involved.

Police Friday night would say only that two men had been taken into custody in connection with the incident.

Legislature Gets 11 Bills Moved During Afternoon

The Legislature reconvened Friday afternoon and managed to move 11 bills from general file before the legislative wheel ground to a halt.

Thirty-one senators registered their presence at the start of the afternoon session, but most bills were advanced with only a bare majority of 25 approving votes.

The measures advanced were taken from a list of bills determined non-controversial by Speaker William Hasebrook of West Point.

Bill To Enlarge Unimcam Investing Power Is Killed

A proposed constitutional amendment which its sponsor said would "slightly" enlarge existing powers of the Legislature to make investments was killed Friday by the Unicameral's Retirement Systems Committee.

The bill killed was LB501 sponsored by Sens. William Hasebrook of West Point, George Syas of Omaha and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

The amendment would invest "slightly" more power in the Legislature to make investments, including retirement funds, according to Whitney.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Voters will be going to the polls this coming Tuesday to cast ballots for Board of Education, Airport Authority, mayor and City Council. Only in the latter two races are there major contests, due to significant numbers of candidates.

Both the mayor and council races will be interesting. On the council, only one incumbent is running, Mrs. Helen Boosalis. It is expected that she will be nominated for another term and she certainly deserves it.

Assuming she is nominated, the matter of continuity alone will be a strong recommendation for her in the May general election. Three other incumbents on the council have chosen not to run again, two of them now in the race for mayor against incumbent Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

Schwartzkopf goes up against Councilmen Ervin Peterson and Bill Davidson. It is the kind of primary in which anything can happen. In our opinion, Schwartzkopf deserves to be nominated but he faces no cinch in doing so.

Both Peterson and Davidson are well known and both appear to be putting on a good campaign. Peterson, perhaps, seems to be a little ahead of Davidson in that category but that might not be a very decisive factor in the outcome of things.

If there is an issue in the mayor's races, it is leadership, followed closely by housing for low-income families. But how you distinguish between the candidates on those issues is pretty tough to say.

We do not believe that Schwartzkopf was very decisive in the early part of his administration but he has progressed well. He has now acquired a good working knowledge of the affairs of the city. It took him time to do so but it took Davidson and Peterson some time, too, to become good members of the City Council.

Davidson does concern us some in the matter of zoning. And on that score, we tend to question what his position might be on a great many issues and personalities that pass through the mayor's office. Since one cannot be for three people in a race where two are nominated, we would give Peterson as our preference for the second nomination vacancy.

When it comes to a hard look at the city and its problems, it is tough to fault Schwartzkopf to any major degree. We might have moved faster than we have in some areas but this is easier to say from the outside looking in than it is when sitting in the mayor's chair.

Continued electric utility progress, continued park and recreation progress and progress in pollution control, fire and police protection, cleanliness of the city, city planning and zoning, mass transit, street improvements and other areas have been made in the past four years.

Schwartzkopf at least shares in the credit for this progress as well as in the criticism that might be directed in some areas.

In the council race, it is interesting to note that there are fewer so-called big names on the ballot this year than in any past election of memory. At the same time, there are far fewer and possibly no totally unqualified candidates for the four open council seats.

We would only recommend, beyond a vote for Mrs. Boosalis, that voters study the League of Women Voters and Sunday Journal and Star guide on the candidates that will appear in this Sunday's newspaper.

We think voters should be leery of candidates who flatly and unequivocally oppose any increase in taxes because such candidates have chosen to ignore needs even before knowing what they are. There are also at least two youthful candidates in John Breslow and Bill Bennett who could be a constructive influence on the council.

Erring Computers Never Apologetic

NEW YORK — I guess the government means to be reassuring when it tells us our income tax returns are checked and cross-checked 200 times before it files them away. Just think, all that concern for our little, old 1040.

The only trouble is that there's nothing reassuring about it, at all. Not when you remember that checking and cross-checking are done by computers.

Of course, we've known for years that our midnight tax math was destined to be stuffed down a computer's throat. But most of us figured (if we gave it any thought at all) our return would make only one mechanical meal.

The best we could do was play the game of "revenue roulette" — and hope we'd be lucky enough to hit a computer that wouldn't foul us up the way some monsters mangle magazine subscriptions and department store billings.

Now, it turns out, we have not one — but 200 — chances of getting crosswise with those tax tabulators. I keep thinking of my poor return, mixed in with 86,000,000 others... then blended with 9,000,000 business forms... and there's no WAY to calm my annual tax butterflies.

And don't tell me computers have "come of age," that they can now feed Farmer Brown's cows and land a man on the moon without turning an electronic hair. I already know that.

I am also aware there are around 100,000 of these miracle monsters clicking and buzzing away with speed and efficiency... and that they can calculate 987,654 to the 10,000th power in a tenth of a second.

Big deal. I also know that things can go wrong with mechanical miracles. Computers have been known to come down with a creaking virus in their components. And when that happens, you need a writ of "habeas data" to get out of hot water.

Don't laugh. Computers have grown so complicated — and cantankerous — a whole new branch of legal service is springing up: computer law. And the experts are busier than a data processor.

One airline is suing its computer company for $70,000,000 for services not rendered. And the company is suing back for $11,500,000 it says the airline owes for the service the airline says it didn't get.

A national magazine complains its computer gargled the subscription lists and spit out nothing but mistakes: $2,500,000 worth. They're suing, too.

Internal Revenue Service folks do tell us that in 1969 suspicious federal computers spotted 5,000,000 tax forms with mathematical errors. Okay, but who's checking on the computers' math?

Then there's the Big Brother worry. Threats to our individual privacy and liberty and all that. We keep hearing about a federal national data bank to store all kinds of secrets — tax, credit, political and maybe worse — on every one of us.

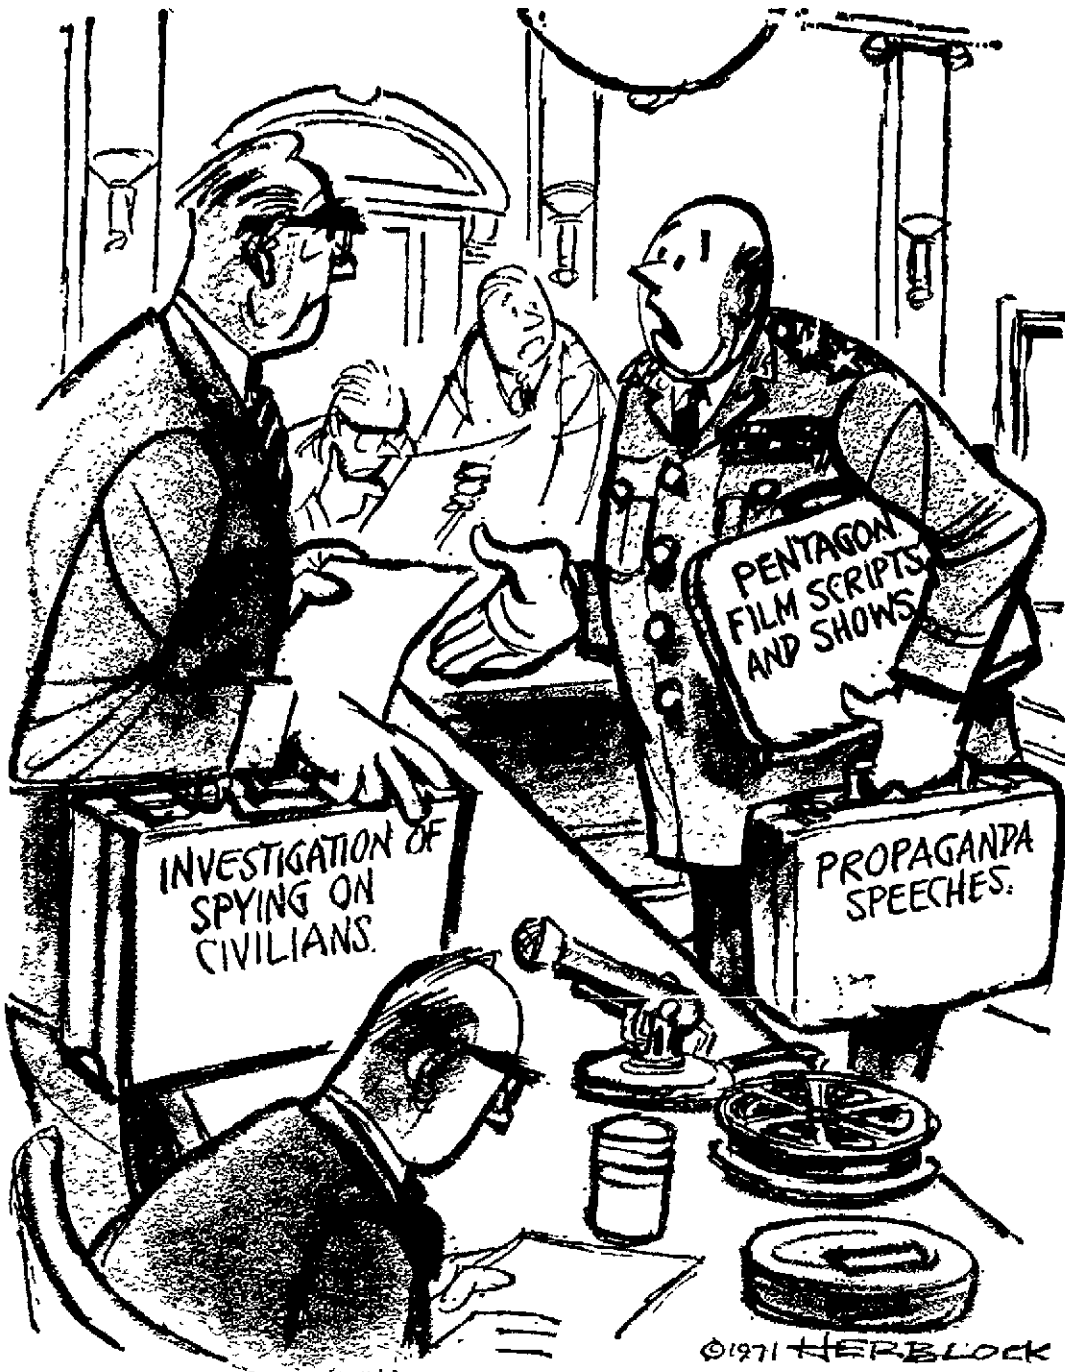

If this should come to pass, all anybody has to do to find out all about us is push one little button. And we won't even know it's happening... or even if the "input" was correct in the first place. How about a little "reassurance" on who's going to push that button?

And that's not all. Now they've got computers that can "talk" to each other. Oh, boy. Just let one human error creep into the programming and, zap, those electronic blabbermouths would spread the mistake faster than gossip along the old "party line."

Electronics can work wonders — but they haven't yet perfected a computer that apologizes. Ask anybody with a credit card.

'I Know Nothing Of Snooping, Senator. I'm In The Selling End'

'Carping' Forced The Issue

A bipartisan foreign policy, or war policy, such as was carried out in World War II for example, is not a reality today. As much as some hope that it might be otherwise, the Vietnam war is an intensely political involvement. It has brought down one president and might bring down another.

Republican senators, responding to a Democratic caucus end-the-war resolution, have become as blatantly partisan as they accuse the Democrats of being.

The Republicans really can't be blamed, of course, for the natural inclination to point out past inconsistencies in the views of certain Democratic colleagues in the Senate. Sen. Muskie, for instance, was ripe for picking apart when he made the statement that he wished he had voiced his opposition to U.S. involvement in Vietnam six years ago. Sen. Humphrey, too, has come under fire for his change of opinion, although in all fairness he really had no other choice but to support his President while being vice president.

But the attempt of some Republican senators to rally the Congress and the people of the country 100% around President Nixon's war policy is not a reasonable goal, nor would it be an accurate reflection of the mood of the country. Certainly, most of the people will agree that Nixon's policy of withdrawal is vastly preferable to his predecessor's escalation of involvement. It is fine as far as it goes, but we would not be far off the mark if we guessed that a majority of Americans would like to see the troops come home more quickly than the President will assent to.

The Republican charge moreover that war critics are harping, carping, sniping "neo-isolationist" members of the "sheep herd left" who are "rooting for the enemy" can't be taken seriously. That "shocking display of intemperate criticism and carping" that Wyoming's Sen. Hansen talks about has forced the winding down of the war. Nothing else would have done so.

Jobs Are First Need

The WPA of depression times took a lot of criticism but it still provided gainful employment for a lot of men. And that is something that is pretty hard to argue against.

It is one thing to have an adequate welfare program and another to have job training and job placement programs. These things are essential in the continuing effort to reduce the unemployment in the nation and bring all people into the productivity of business and industry.

But when a man suddenly loses his job, he needs more than an unemployment check and more than training for a new job. What he needs is another job, and fast. What he has lost is his weekly paycheck and there just isn't any substitute for that.

With that in mind, the Senate has passed a $1.7 billion bill for public service employment. The measure would provide jobs in public service at the local level of government for an estimated 150,000 unemployed.

In the total unemployment picture, 150,000 jobs are not big but it is more jobs than will be lost by cancellation of the supersonic transport program. The SST program was pegged at around $1.5 to $2 billion.

We think that the Senate has made a wise decision. Not only would such a program, if passed by the House and signed by the President, provide needed employment, but it would assist local governments in providing some programs and services that they cannot now meet.

Thus, the funds expended for public service jobs will not be wasted or lost. For the money put out, performance will be received. The program is one that complements the other approaches that are made to unemployment and one that is highly practical and effective.

WILLIAM V. SHANNON

McCarthy Biding Time, Will Shun Primaries; No Apologies For Chicago Still A Sore Point

WASHINGTON — It was the morning after his 55th birthday. Sitting in the study of his small, pleasant Georgetown house where he writes his speeches and occasionally works out a poem, Gene McCarthy was his usual relaxed and amiably sardonic self. He was wearing dark slacks, a faded blue, open-necked shirt and an old brown sweater. His face unlined and his gray hair tousled, he looks unchanged from three years ago when his primary campaign helped topple Lyndon Johnson from power.

Does he plan to lead a new party in 1972? "I intend to keep myself free through next year and see how the war develops and what the parties do."

"After the convention last time, some of my people made a study which showed that I could have gotten on the ballot in almost every state. We might have had to take a few states up to the Supreme Court to challenge their restrictive laws, but it could have been done. So I think I could get on the ballot even if I want until September, 1972, after the conventions are over."

When he declared his support for Hubert Humphrey near the end of the 1968 campaign, McCarthy also announced that he would not actively seek the presidential nomination of the Democratic party again. Why this renunciation? Why not fight for his party's nomination again?

"I was saying that next time the party would have to come to me. I don't think you can ever do the same thing twice. For me to go into the primaries next year would not be worth the expenditure of energy. Primaries are too expensive and too chaotic. Next year, I don't think they will prove anything because different candidates are going to win in different states."

"Even if I won most of the primaries, I'm not sure the result would be any different at the convention from last time. The labor guys are still hostile to me. Also guilt feelings are a big obstacle. A lot of people who opposed me last time are now against the war themselves, but it is hard for them to admit that they were wrong and that I was right all along — and that's what nominating me would involve. No, you just can't take the party by storm."

Then McCarthy's mind reverted to an old grievance. "I never got so much as an apology from anyone on how my people were treated at Chicago. No leader of the party said to me even in private — 'Gene, I'm sorry' — not to mention publicly condemning as wrong what happened at the Hilton."

McCarthy cannot hope to be elected president on an independent ticket, but such a candidacy could cost the Democrats the election next time. Does this mean that he does not think it makes any difference whether Nixon or a Democrat wins?

"I don't think it has made any difference these past two years as far as the war is concerned. I don't mean the invasions of Cambodia and Laos, but the basic question of ending the war. I know they're saying now that if Humphrey had won, he would have kept Harriman in Paris and we would have a negotiated settlement by now. But there's nothing in the record to prove that. For all I

OLIVER CROMWELL

They Had A Dream

Events went badly for the Continental Army in the year following the Declaration of Independence. In a disheartening series of defeats, Gen. George Washington and his tattered forces were pushed out of New York, then New Jersey and finally across the Delaware River into Pennsylvania.

It was November, and the onset of winter promised new hardships for the 6,000 patriots who were pitted against the might of England. Many had no shoes or stockings; others, no shirts or coats. Blankets were in short supply.

A considerable number of the men would be eligible for release when their enlistments would expire at the end of the year, and Washington expected few of them to re-enlist.

The situation was desperate. Without more men, Washington wrote, "the game will be pretty well up."

It was at this time that patriot Thomas Paine penned the immortal words: "These are the times that try men's souls; the summer soldier and sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman."

One of those who stood fast in the crisis was a free black soldier by the name of Oliver Cromwell. Cromwell had enlisted at the outset of the Revolution in a company commanded by a Capt. Lowery, attached to the 2nd New Jersey Regiment. He would see the war to its end, and he would share in a great dramatic moment: Washington's crossing of the Delaware.

In a bold strategic stroke, Washington mustered his forces on the night of Dec. 25, 1776, and marched them through a blinding snowstorm to the ice-clogged Delaware.

The line of march was stained with the blood of shoeless men but, one officer wrote, "I have not heard a man complain."

At the river, Cromwell and his comrades climbed into the boats, made the perilous crossing, marched on Trenton, N.J., and captured the town. They took 1,000 prisoners and gave a great psychological boost to the cause of liberty.

After Trenton, Cromwell fought at Princeton, where he said, "We knocked the British about lively," at Brandywine, Monmouth and Yorktown where he often said he saw the last soldier killed.

Cromwell served under the immediate command of Washington for six years and nine months. His discharge at the close of the war was in Washington's own handwriting, of which he was very proud, "a friend of Cromwell related."

Cromwell was born in Columbus, N.J., around 1752, but his parentage is obscure. He is said to have been raised by Thomas Hutchins, his maternal uncle, and made his living as a farmer.

Cromwell returned to Columbus after the war, married and fathered 14 children, eight of whom he outlived. Known as an honorable man, he is said never to have "chewed tobacco nor drank a glass of ardent spirits."

In his later years, Cromwell, who drew a government pension of $96 a year, lived on East Union Street in Burlington, N.J.

He died on Jan. 24, 1853, in the town of his birth after passing his 100th birthday. Cromwell was buried in the churchyard of the Broad Street Methodist Church in Columbus.

Freeloaders

Lincoln, Neb.

In reply to the April 1 letter from "Reader," that has to be an April Fool joke.

I understand that if "Reader" lives in a small town, he may not understand the workings of a big city government. First, when there is a university enrollment as big as it is, it is not run on peanuts. I do not think my tax money is wasted when it comes to supporting the education of our young people. At least when they are educated, they will not be on our poverty list. Let's not knock our educators.

Second, if the governor did all the traveling himself that has to be done for the betterment of our state, who would be here to look after the emergencies and local things that have to be taken care of?

Where our money is being spent is taking care of the state's illegitimate children being born to promiscuous women. Whether they are raised by the mother and she collects ADC or they are placed in an institution, it is these freeloaders who are taking the toll of our tax money. And I am sure each town has its share.

If each person would look at himself and say, "How can I help the state save money?" we would be surprised what we would come up with. If each town would clean up its freeloaders, the amount of government money that would be saved would be tremendous.

Divorced Fathers

Lincoln, Neb.

It has been alleged that divorced fathers deserting their families are the greatest cause of our country's welfare rolls increasing. This may be true, but before a cure can be found, the cause must be corrected.

Many divorced fathers disappear because of unreasonable property settlements and child support orders set by the courts. Two other reasons are "interference or denial of visitation rights" and the "alienation of the children by the custodial parent against the non-custodial parent." Until our laws are changed to protect divorced fathers, they will continue to desert their families and the support payments disappear along with them.

Outside Interests

It seems to me that this question of outside business interests is pretty important in the mayor's race. Sam Schwartzkopf has no outside business interests and he has demonstrated that he will work long and hard for our city.

It seems as if open season always is long enough for various wild game, without adding a harmless dove to be shot. A dove is supposed to be a symbol of peace.

As for the meat part, how many doves would it take for a meal just for one person? Seems all the sportsman hunters want is to make a target of a poor innocent dove.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Voters will be going to the polls this coming Tuesday to cast ballots for Board of Education, Airport Authority, mayor and City Council. Only in the latter two races are there major contests, due to significant numbers of candidates.

Both the mayor and council races will be interesting. On the council, only one incumbent is running, Mrs. Helen Boosalis. It is expected that she will be nominated for another term and she certainly deserves it.

Assuming she is nominated, the matter of continuity alone will be a strong recommendation for her in the May general election. Three other incumbents on the council have chosen not to run again, two of them now in the race for mayor against incumbent Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

After Trenton, Cromwell fought at Princeton, where he said, "We knocked the British about lively," at Brandywine, Monmouth and Yorktown where he often said he saw the last soldier killed.

Cromwell served under the immediate command of Washington for six years and nine months. "His discharge at the close of the war was in Washington's own handwriting, of which he was very proud," a friend of Cromwell related.

Cromwell was born in Columbus, N.J., around 1752, but his parentage is obscure. He is said to have been raised by Thomas Hutchins, his maternal uncle, and made his living as a farmer.

Cromwell returned to Columbus after the war, married and fathered 14 children, eight of whom he outlived. Known as an honorable man, he is said never to have "chewed tobacco nor drank a glass of ardent spirits."

In his later years, Cromwell, who drew a government pension of $96 a year, lived on East Union Street in Burlington, N.J.

He died on Jan. 24, 1853, in the town of his birth after passing his 100th birthday. Cromwell was buried in the churchyard of the Broad Street Methodist Church in Columbus.

Freeloaders

Lincoln, Neb.
In reply to the April 1 letter from "Reader," that has to be an April Fool joke.

I understand that if "Reader" lives in a small town, he may not understand the workings of a big city government. First, when there is a university enrollment as big as it is, it is not run on peanuts. I do not think my tax money is wasted when it comes to supporting the education of our young people. At least when they are educated, they will not be on our poverty list. Let's not knock our educators.

Second, if the governor did all the traveling himself that has to be done for the betterment of our state, who would be here to look after the emergencies and local things that have to be taken care of?

Where our money is being spent is taking care of the state's illegitimate children being born to promiscuous women. Whether they are raised by the mother and she collects ADC or they are placed in an institution, it is these freeloaders who are taking the toll of our tax money. And I am sure each town has its share.

If each person would look at himself and say, "How can I help the state save money?" we would be surprised what we would come up with. If each town would clean up its freeloaders, the amount of government money that would be saved would be tremendous.

Divorced Fathers

Lincoln, Neb.

It has been alleged that divorced fathers deserting their families are the greatest cause of our country's welfare rolls increasing. This may be true, but before a cure can be found, the cause must be corrected.

Many divorced fathers disappear because of unreasonable property settlements and child support orders set by the courts. Two other reasons are "interference or denial of visitation rights" and the "alienation of the children by the custodial parent against the non-custodial parent." Until our laws are changed to protect divorced fathers, they will continue to desert their families and the support payments disappear along with them.

Outside Interests

Lincoln, Neb.

It seems to me that this question of outside business interests is pretty important in the mayor's race. Sam Schwartzkopf has no outside business interests and he has demonstrated that he will work long and hard for our city.

BIRD LOVER

Save The Doves

DuBois, Neb.

It seems as if open season always is long enough for various wild game, without adding a harmless dove to be shot. A dove is supposed to be a symbol of peace.

As for the meat part, how many doves would it take for a meal just for one person? Seems all the sportsman hunters want is to make a target of a poor innocent dove.

Sen. Terry Carpenter Friday took sharp exception to Gov. J. James Exon's suggestion that taxpayers contact senators to express their concern over spending and budget matters.

"I suggest he ask the taxpayers to contact him rather than us," Carpenter said in remarks on the floor of the Legislature.

The governor, he said, has the authority to control and limit spending if he wishes by declining to spend all funds which the Legislature appropriates to agencies under his control.

"If he wants to be frugal, he can limit spending," Carpenter said.

In fact, he suggested, if the governor does well in controlling spending, "maybe we could roll the sales tax rate back to 2% next time."

After Carpenter spoke, Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha asked if he could assume that "the honeymoon between the governor and the Legislature is now over."

"I think that's a correct assumption," Carpenter replied.

Exon, Carpenter said, "gives the people a false impression" when he suggests that responsibility for spending levels should rest with the Legislature.

"All we say is here's the money; now you exercise your judgment," Carpenter said.

"If he wants to prorate spending that's his business and not ours."

Deficit Financing

Carpenter suggested that the Legislature go on record in opposition to further deficit financing as an indication of its position on spending controls.

Exon, he said, is "putting this body in a bad light" when he says senators push "pet projects" which threaten to crack his budget limits.

"I am disturbed at the position this Legislature is being placed in," he said.

Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa arose to defend Exon, suggesting that "the governor should be commended" for his efforts to control spending in line with the wishes of most taxpayers.

Bill Introduced To Permit Turns On Red Lights

A bill authorizing motorists in Nebraska to make right turns on red lights was introduced in the Legislature Friday as LB1018.

Sponsored by the Government Committee, the bill authorizes drivers to turn right on a red light after coming to a full stop and the way is clear. Local governmental subdivisions could prohibit such turns by ordinance, however.

The Legislature was invited Friday to involve itself in the Lt. William Calley case. Action was deferred until Monday.

Omaha Sen. P. J. Morgan of Omaha moved that the Legislature wire the President, asking clemency for Calley, sentenced to life imprisonment by a military court martial as the result of the My Lai massacre in Vietnam.

At the same time, Omaha Sen. Richard F. Proud delivered to the Legislature a proposed resolution asking President Nixon to review the findings of the military court.

By agreement, discussion was deferred.

Waiting Bills' Fate Decided

The Legislature decided Friday what to do with bills still awaiting final action when the current session adjourns after the 90th legislative day.

The rules change adopted Friday provides that all bills on the floor shall hold their place while bills still in committee shall be considered killed.

The decision was necessitated by adoption of a constitutional amendment last November which provides for annual legislative sessions of 90 and 60 days.

Bills not acted upon in the 90-day session during the odd numbered years may be held over for action the following year.

Dozens of bills are now on general file, the first of three stages of floor consideration, and numerous measures presumably will be still pending when the Legislature adjourns.

Lower Voting Age Ratified By Nebraska

By The Associated Press

Nebraska Friday ratified the proposed U.S. Constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age to 18 years in all elections.

By a 32-2 vote, the Legislature approved in Resolution 31, introduced to ratify the proposed amendment.

Sponsoring the resolution were freshmen Sens. Gerald Stromer of Kearney and Duke Snyder and P. J. Morgan of Omaha.

The vote by the Unicameral was concluded at 9:11 a.m. and the ratification official when Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, the Legislature's presiding officer, signed the resolution at 11 a.m.

Thirty-eight states will need to ratify the amendment before it is officially adopted.

There was no debate in the Legislature Friday on the matter.

Nebraska's voting age is now 20 in the state and local elections, lowered by voters last November with approval of a state constitutional amendment.

Retired Neighbors Happy In Italy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peterson is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by author and publisher Henry Schmidt.)

By HENRY SCHMIDT

A reader writes:—Retired neighbors of ours recently moved back to Italy where they came from 20 years ago. They write us periodically and say how happy they are, how much less expensive things are over there. They say they do fine on their Social Security check and a little income they have from savings.

Their letters have made my husband start to dream about moving overseas when he retires, but the thought scares me. We've been overseas once, but just breezed around and know nothing about any particular places that would be good for American retirees.

But is it a good idea, anyway?

Answer:—For some it is, but for heaven's sake don't jump into such an adventure without doing lots more thinking, researching and certainly if you can, give it a six months trial.

The Social Security Administration told me that they send some 220,000 checks to Americans living in foreign countries. Most of the people have gone back to home countries, but a growing number are lured by the promise of lower costs and the adventure of it.

Many find disillusionment of various sorts. For one thing, their native land and home town often may have changed substantially. The natives may not take them in too readily. They may have been spoiled by the convenience of American housing. Some countries have a high tax on pensions. They lose out on Medicare and may not be able to get medical insurance.

Italy is the prime destination of the reverse emigration. The Administration sends over 30,000 checks there monthly. There are over 15,000 beneficiaries in both Greece and West Germany. Some 7,000 checks go to Spain; 9,000 to England; 4,000 go to Ireland. A huge number of them go to Canada and Mexico.

A reader writes:—After reading your column on country living, my husband and I are intrigued with the idea of retiring on the early side, moving out of the country where cost of living is cheaper, and having some livestock and growing our own vegetables and fruits. But how much land do we have to have for this?

Answer:—Your garden would be the key towards rural self-sufficiency. Livestock requires as much as 10 times the land required for a nutritionally equivalent supply of fruits and vegetables, if feed for the stock is to be grown on the homestead.

With a power tiller, one person can easily maintain an acre of garden, primarily of vegetables but with strawberries, melons and tomatoes to supply fruit value to the diet. Since the product of half an acre is probably ample for a family of four, there arises the opportunity to make the garden pay for itself through retail sale of surplus produced beyond family needs.

Tight Control Of Explosives Is Approved

By The Associated Press

Tight control of explosives in Nebraska was ordered by the State Legislature Friday.

Passed 39-0 on final reading was LB854, under which the state fire marshal will grant permits for the possession or use of explosives.

The State Crime Commission participated in framing the bill in the amended form in which it was passed.

State Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt, chief sponsor of the bill, told the Legislature earlier that last June's firebombing of the ROTC building on the University of Nebraska campus in Lincoln prompted the bill.

While establishing controls for explosives generally the bill provides special definitions for destructive devices—booby traps and Molotov cocktails, among others—and makes their possession unlawful. Felony penalties for illegal use or possession of explosives are provided.

Also passed Friday on a 41-0 vote was Beatrice Sen. Fred W. Carstens LB464, adopting for Nebraska a revised uniform reciprocal enforcement of support act.

Former Coed Has Afternoon Wedding

The wedding of Miss Kathryn Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Young of Adams, and Michael Rief, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rief of Wisner, took place on Saturday afternoon, March 27, at the Wesley Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus. The Rev. Mel Lutchens solemnized the 3 o'clock ceremony before a background of lighted candles and greenery, and Miss Mary Lee Hunt played the wedding music. Miss Maureen Bovick was the vocal soloist.

Alike frocks of shantung, patterned with a floral motif in green and white, were worn by the attendants including Miss Maureen

Bovick, the maid of honor; Miss Gretchen Schudel, the bridesmaid, and bridesmatron Mrs. Robert Severance of Nebraska. The frocks were in the Empire mode and were fashioned with high collars, puffed sleeves and floor-length skirts.

Larry Rief of Denver served as best man, and seating the guests were Donald Moeller of Beemer and Douglas Keller.

The bride appeared in a gown of white brocade, accented with lace. The lace, with inserted insets of ribbon patterned the Empire bodice designed with a collar and long sleeves, which was closely fitted above the long, silhouette skirt. Her full-length veil was held to the head with a bandeau of pearlized orange blossoms and greenery which had been worn by her grandmother as a bride. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mr. Rief and his bride will reside in Omaha.

The bride was graduated with a major in elementary education from the University of Nebraska, and now is a substitute teacher in the Omaha area schools. Mr. Rief is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration and now is a district representative for the Tennant Co. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Cheryl Young Reveals Plans

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Cheryl Lynn Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Young, who has chosen Saturday, April 17, as the date for her marriage to Jerry Phipps, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Phipps.

Maid of honor for the 4 o'clock ceremony, to be solemnized at the Aldersgate United Methodist Church, will be Miss Vicki Bellinger.

Serving Mr. Phipps as best man will be Dave Adams, and seating the guests will be Mark

Lohmeier, Rodney Oge, and Dan Connelly.

The bride-to-be was presented a miscellaneous shower on Saturday evening, March 27, when Mrs. Ray Olson entertained a group of guests at her home at a party for Miss Young.

A Visual Feast For A Gala Event

A great deal of talent, considerable thought, and a tremendous amount of hard work go into the planning of a gala event. We might add that any gala event depends upon its decor to add that certain touch of festivity to the occasion.

We have in mind at the moment the Beaux Arts Ball toward which the Lincoln Community Playhouse Guild is bending all of its efforts.

The Ball is to have an Elizabethan theme and that means that those enthusiastic and talented members of the Guild who are in charge of decorations had to do some research before beginning their tasks.

In the picture we find a group of the Guild members preparing a visual feast for the tables at the Ball, at the home of Mrs. James McCabe, and it's an intricate process since the decorations are of papier mache.

Mrs. James Raglin, Mrs. Neil Ridge, Mrs. McCabe and Mrs. William Schlaebitz.

We suspect that the busy fivesome was happy with the arrangement in Mrs. McCabe's kitchen which has two stoves—one gas, one electric. They kept the papier mache at the proper temperature for molding.

Bridal Parties

Recent bridal courtesies honoring Miss Rochelle (Shelley) Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle W. Franklin, who will become the bride of Kevin L. Belka on Saturday, April 10, include the miscellaneous shower on Wednesday evening, March 31, when Mrs. Kenneth Brolyer and her daughters, Mrs. Jerry Barger and Mrs. Larry McMinder, entertained a group of guests at the home of Mrs. Brolyer.

On Thursday evening, March 25, Mrs. Alex Froscheiser was hostess in courtesy to Miss Franklin when she entertained her neighbors at a miscellaneous shower at her home. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Jerome Prochaska.

Miss Davalynn Rieke and her mother,

Mrs. Jack Rieke, were hostesses at a personal shower for the bride-to-be on Sunday afternoon, March 21; and Miss Franklin's aunts were hostesses in courtesy to the future bride at a miscellaneous shower held Friday evening, March 19, at First Federal. Party hostesses included Mrs. Harvey Kaufman, Mrs. Jack Rieke, Mrs. Charlotte Kaufman, Mrs. David Kaufman, Mrs. Gerald Goede of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Phil Kaufman, and Mrs. Lloyd Gaede.

Also honoring Miss Franklin recently were Mrs. Jack Phenix and Mrs. Elmer E. Beatty who were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening, March 15, at the home of Mrs. Pehnix.

"ISOBUTYLIDENE DIUREA" What Is It?

Alias IBDU

A mysterious new disease? No, it's the most revolutionary development in lawn fertilizers in 15 years. A new source of Nitrogen that is burn-free, long-lasting, even-release, and leach resistant brought to you exclusively in Vigoro products. COLOR

Why I.B.D.U. is so much better

IBDU is a slowly available form of nitrogen that's made to order for foolproof feeding of all grasses. It is burn free, long lasting, leach resistant, and labor-saving.

The reason? The nitrogen is released by hydrolysis at slow, smooth, even rate. And it is released over a long period of time, predetermined by careful selection of granule size.

Only a small amount of moisture is required to trigger hydrolysis... to erode the outer edges of the granules. Availability is not dependent on soil temperature and microbial activity.

As a result, IBDU delivers more even growth throughout the season, with fewer dips and valleys in midseason, better response in cool weather.

Normal watering during dry spells reactivates hydrolysis. Yet, heavy rainfall coupled with warm temperatures will not produce excessive growth spurts, nor heavy thatch and clippings.

Former Coed Has Afternoon Wedding

The wedding of Miss Kathryn Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Young of Adams, and Michael Rief, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rief of Wisner, took place on Saturday afternoon, March 27, at the Wesley Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus. The Rev. Mel Luetkens solemnized the 3 o'clock ceremony before a background of lighted candles and greenery, and Miss Mary Lee Hunt played the wedding music. Miss Maureen Bovick was the vocal soloist.

Alike frocks of shantung, patterned with a floral motif in green and white, were worn by the attendants including Miss Maureen

Bovick, the maid of honor; Miss Gretchen Schudel, the bridesmaid, and bridesmatron Mrs. Robert Severence of Nebraska. The frocks were in the Empire mode and were fashioned with high collars, puffed sleeves and floor-length skirts.

Larry Rief of Denver served as best man, and seating the guests were Donald Moeller of Beemer and Douglas Keller.

The bride appeared in a gown of white brocade, accented with lace. The lace, with inserted insets of ribbon patterned the Empire bodice designed with a collar and long sleeves, which was closely fitted above the long, silhouette skirt. Her full-length veil was held to the head with a bandeau of pearlized orange blossoms and greenery which had been worn by her grandmother as a bride. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mr. Rief and his bride will reside in Omaha.

The bride was graduated with a major in elementary education from the University of Nebraska, and now is a substitute teacher in the Omaha area schools. Mr. Rief is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration and now is a district representative for the Tennant Co. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Clifford Place Wellington Greens Lincoln Heights Kimballcrest

Easter, need we remind you, is only a week away, so get out the Easter bonnet and finery now — this occasion usually makes a good excuse for that new dress or suit you have been wanting! As all children, from nursery school through college, know, following this coming week, they are due for spring vacation — a blissful week of freedom.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hinrichs and Amy Lynn of Bethany Park Heights will be waving goodbye to daughter — and sister — Lori Ann, when Easter vacation arrives.

Lori is in for a special treat — an Easter weekend visit at the home of Grandpa and Grandma, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kubicek, in Milligan.

Earlier last month — March 9, to be exact, Amy Lynn celebrated that special once-a-year event, too well known to most of us — a birthday naturally. The young miss celebrated her birthday no. 4 in style at a family dinner which included Mrs. Hinrich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kubicek of Milligan, and Mrs. Hinrich's brother, Mike Kubicek.

The Clifford Place home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fisher is buzzing with activity this weekend. Welcome house guests indeed, are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lovinger of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Lovinger is Mr. Fisher's sister, and it has been two years since they have seen each other. The long awaited reunion also will be celebrated with the arrival of Mr. Fisher's father, Tony Fisher of Chamberlain, S.D. On Sunday evening, Mrs. Fisher is planning a dinner when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fisher complete the family circle for the occasion. The Lovingers will go from Lincoln to Atlanta, Ga., for a visit with their son.

Another Clifford Place family, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Kubler spent last weekend in Omaha with Mr. and Mrs. Terence Haney. The couples first met in New Orleans where the two husbands were on business trips.

Mrs. Ted Thornton-Trump of Wellington Greens returned on Tuesday from a 12-day visit to Vancouver, Canada. Vancouver is the home of Mrs. Thornton-Trump's mother, Mrs. H. Boale, as well as her son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thornton-Trump and their family. Among the highlights of the trip for Mrs. Thornton-Trump was the time she spent with her five-year old granddaughter, Miss Monica Thornton-Trump.

Another family in Wellington Greens, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Julian, recently returned from a five-week tour of many areas of the U.S. Their excursion began in the south, in the resort area of Harlingen and Brownsville, Tex. It was strictly by chance that the couple learned of the resort area of Padre Island, off the coast near Corpus Christi. The Julians spent 10 delightful days on the island, basking in the sun, fishing and enjoying the temperate climate.

West was the next direction for Mr. and Mrs. Julian, and San Jose was the destination point. In San Jose they visited with Mrs. Julian's sister Mrs. Wally Burkett and her family. While in San Jose, the Julians took a short trip northward to San Francisco to see the sights in that beautiful city.

Los Angeles was the next spot on the agenda, and the Julians visited with Mr. and Mrs. Odd Johanson, Mrs. Julian's sister and her husband who live in Garden Grove, a suburb of Los Angeles. Leaving Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Julian headed for Westminster, Calif., the home of Mrs. Julian's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Richel. Then it was homeward bound for Lincoln with a package trip full of a little California sunshine and many, many fond memories.

The stock market is an interesting phenomenon of modern-day society. Many people keep a constant eye on the market page to see what is happening to their investments.

Also, investment clubs are popping up all over the country — it is a "share the wealth" game that is played for keeps — with couples putting their heads and coins together in order to make more substantial investments.

One such club has sprung up in the Lincoln Heights area and the organizers of the group were Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Hutson.

Members of the newly-formed organization of investors include Mr. and Mrs. James Mastara, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gustin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Semm, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hrusza, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Geiger, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jacob, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brass, Mr. and Mrs. George Bool, and Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Giebelhuus.

In addition to investing their earnings, the couples get together once a month for a dinner and to discuss their future enterprises.

Inviting friends and the neighbors over for a weekday coffee is a great way to be sure to keep the telephone lines free and to avoid the too common "busy" signal.

Mrs. Carroll Burns and her Kimballcrest friends and neighbors make a point of getting together regularly for coffee and to discuss the current events of interest.

It was Mrs. Burns' turn this month and attending the recent morning coffee at her home were Mrs. Hershel Graham, Mrs. Walter Walke, Mrs. Bob Evans, Mrs. Jack Horner and her daughter Kristin, Mrs. Dwight Thimgan and Vicki and Greg, Mr. Audrey Wiegert, Mrs. Henry Schmidt, and Mrs. Neal Kennedy.

Abby: apologize

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed. I am 14, and a boy. The other night I was at The Boys Club and I called my mother to ask her if I could stay an extra half hour. My older brother answered the phone and he went to get my mother. My best friend was standing by the phone with me, and just to play a joke on him I said right into the telephone, "Mom, you old bag, I'm staying out until 10 o'clock."

To my surprise, my mother was on the other end and she heard me. When I got home she told me that since she was being called "an old bag," she was going to start acting like one, and I shouldn't expect any more favors, or money from her. Also that from now on she is giving ALL her love to my older brother.

Abby, I feel so sorry and downhearted. I love my mother a lot, and I didn't really mean what I said. How can I get her to want me back?

—DIDN'T MEAN IT

DEAR DIDN'T: Some mothers in moments of anger also say things they don't really mean. Apologize to her, and tell her you were only showing off for your friend.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — king of clubs.
Of course, one constantly aims for perfection, but it is a difficult goal to attain in bridge.

Consider this deal where West led the K-A and another club. Declarer won in his hand and realized he could not tackle trumps at once because West might go up with the ace and lead a fourth club, forcing dummy to ruff.

Accordingly, South first cashed the K-A-Q of diamonds, discarding his last club, then played a heart to the ace and returned the jack of spades. West rose with the ace and returned the jack of hearts to dummy's king, producing this four-card position:

Declarer now had to return to his hand for the crucial spade finesse, but unluckily — though reasonably — he elected to ruff a heart. West overruffed and the contract went down one. Had South exited with a diamond instead, he would have made the contract.

While it is true that declarer played very well by disposing of his fourth club before tackling trumps, the fact remains that he should not have created a predicament where he was forced to guess which suit to lead from dummy in the position above.

Instead of crossing to his hand at trick seven with a heart to the ace, declarer should first have cashed the king of hearts, then led a heart to the ace. Had he made this farsighted play, West would not have been able to put him into dummy to go wrong.

B. Jay Becker

Abby: apologize

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed. I am 14, and a boy. The other night I was at The Boys Club and I called my mother to ask her if I could stay an extra half hour. My older brother answered the phone and he went to get my mother. My best friend was standing by the phone with me, and just to play a joke on him I said right into the telephone, "Mom, you old bag, I'm staying out until 10 o'clock."

To my surprise, my mother was on the other end and she heard me. When I got home she told me that since she was being called "an old bag," she was going to start acting like one, and I shouldn't expect any more favors, or money from her. Also that from now on she is giving ALL her love to my older brother.

Abby, I feel so sorry and downhearted. I love my mother a lot, and I didn't really mean what I said. How can I get her to want me back?

—DIDN'T MEAN IT

DEAR DIDN'T: Some mothers in moments of anger also say things they don't really mean. Apologize to her, and tell her you were only showing off for your friend.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Of course, one constantly aims for perfection, but it is a difficult goal to attain in bridge.

Consider this deal where West led the K-A and another club. Declarer won in his hand and realized he could not tackle trumps at once because West might go up with the ace and lead a fourth club, forcing dummy to ruff.

Accordingly, South first cashed the K-A-Q of diamonds, discarding his last club, then played a heart to the ace and returned the jack of spades. West rose with the ace and returned the jack of hearts to dummy's king, producing this four-card position:

While it is true that declarer played very well by disposing of his fourth club before tackling trumps, the fact remains that he should not have created a predicament where he was forced to guess which suit to lead from dummy in the position above.

Instead of crossing to his hand at trick seven with a heart to the ace, declarer

Ed Board Team Defines Choices

TO LEA NEGOTIATORS

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Negotiators for the Lincoln Board of Education Friday proposed that Lincoln teachers either accept an earlier proposal or approve a new one which offers smaller increases in next year's salaries and fringe benefits.

What the new proposal does, however, is remove as a condition the acceptance of a separate salary schedule for new employees, a move which negotiators for the Lincoln Education Association had said was unpalatable.

The two-pronged suggestion without accepting or rejecting it. They said it would be reviewed by the association's executive board Monday and agreed to arrange another negotiations session next week.

Would Submit Plans

Speaking for the school board's team, Association Supt. Robert Den Hartog said the LEA could submit either or both of the offers to the association's membership of teachers.

The LEA team had said last week, when the board team first offered the wage package which was tied to the adoption of the separate schedule, that they could not accept the "mini-schedule" concept and the offer was rejected.

"If the second schedule is so unacceptable," Assistant Supt. Carroll Savin told the LEA team, "you'll have to buy it (the retention of a single schedule)" with smaller wage and fringe benefits increases.

The second schedule has been described by board negotiators as a first step toward a new concept in teacher pay based more on extra pay for extra responsibility.

Under the present system, automatic raises are generally provided on the basis of years' classroom experience and educational achievement, assuming performance is acceptable. The separate schedule would reduce the number of wage hikes possible on those bases.

Over-All Hike Of 6.5%

The offer tied to the separate schedule would provide an average overall increase of about 6.5% in salaries and fringe benefits at a cost of about $938,000.

Friday's new offer would scrap the separate schedule but provide an over-all increase of about 6% in wages and benefits, at a cost of about $882,000.

Peterson Claims Funds Available For Use In Park

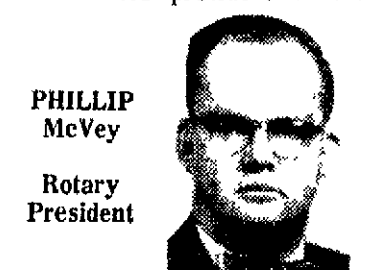

Mayoral candidate Erv Peterson said there are federal and state funds available for development of the Northeast Park, and that as mayor he would do all he can to get money to do the job.

Peterson said Sen. Wally Barnett, who after a visit in Washington D.C. with federal offices about parks and recreation funds, "has assurance from federal officials that there are federal funds now available for park development."

"There is no doubt that Lincoln has failed to take advantage of possible funding available. As mayor I will see to it that we move as fast as possible on this," he said.

Eppley Funds Transferred By Aeronautics Commission

The State Aeronautics Commission Friday approved the request of Omaha's Eppley Field to use $277,600 for fiscal 1972 airport aid funds for the proposed $1.8 million relocation of the Missouri River dike near the airport.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers is currently developing plans and specifications for the dike relocation, and the airport requested this portion of its $871,000 allocation for airport improvements to be transferred to the project.

The Commission also okayed the Lincoln Municipal Airport's request for the transfer of $10,000 in state aid from a land acquisition allocation to provide 50% funding for a $20,000 air-conditioning project for the Terminal Building's passenger loading concourse.

Approval was also given to the Cozad Municipal Airport's proposed $11,160 project for extending the apron between newly installed T-sprangers and the taxiway.

The action allocated $5,580 in state aid, when 1972 or 1973

Polick Proposes New Procedures For Traffic Flow

City Council candidate Jerry Polick said that city ordinances and regulations need to be revised to improve the flow of traffic.

"I am not ignoring the need for additional street improvements, but I do feel that implementing certain procedures could improve the flow of traffic on the streets we presently have," Polick said.

He endorsed the idea of allowing drivers to make right turns after stopping for a red light on certain arterials.

Polick also proposed a minimum speed limit for selected four-lane arterials, particularly O St.

"It seems ridiculous to me to spend millions of dollars on divided four-lane arterials only to have traffic slowed to a crawl by drivers," he said suggesting 30 miles per hour as a reasonable minimum limit.

Man Attacked, Robbed Of $68 In 'Hobo Jungle'

Lincoln police reported Friday that $68 in cash and a pair of glasses were stolen from Robert Hall, a 33-year-old transient, by two persons who assaulted him earlier this week in an area known as "Hobo Jungle" in the Burlington Northern Railroad yards, southwest of downtown Lincoln.

Police said that Hall sustained a fractured jaw during the assault and is recovering in Veteran's Hospital.

Lincoln, Omaha To Vie For NSEA Convention

Lincoln might host a teachers convention in 1972 more than twice as large as those held in the past or the capital city might not host one at all.

The host goes for Omaha which, in competition with Lincoln, may have 9,000 to 10,000 member teachers convention or one none.

One of these cities each year will gain a larger, combined convention and the other will have none beginning in 1972, according to a new Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) plan.

In Only 3 Cities

The plan, approved by a majority of the NSEA board, calls for teachers conventions in only three Nebraska cities instead of the present five.

In 1972 Scottsbluff, Kearney and Lincoln or Omaha will continue to have conventions. Norfolk, the fifth convention city in the past, will be eliminated.

NSEA also announced that the two-day conventions in 1972 will be held in March instead of the traditional last week in October.

Criteria Not Told

John Lynch, executive secretary of the association, said the NSEA board probably will decide between Lincoln and Omaha for 1972 at its next meeting April 24. He did not say what criteria would be used for a choice, but suggested that available meeting space will be a factor.

In October 1970 Lincoln hosted approximately 4,000 teachers and Omaha had 5,000. There will be no conventions in October 1971 because the 1972 spring meetings soon will follow.

Lynch, who stressed that the new format has been studied since 1968, said cost is the major factor in eliminating two of the

Lincolnite Protests Calley Trial By Quitting Draft Job

A Lincoln doctor resigned his seat Friday on the state's Selective Service appeals board in protest of the prosecution and conviction of Lt. William Calley.

Dr. Harold Horn, a World War II veteran, resigned after more than 11 years on the five-member board, which is best known for hearing conscientious objector appeals.

Horn said he sent resignation letters to President Richard Nixon, Curtis W. Tarr, national director of the Selective Service, and Col. Lee Liggett, state Selective Service director.

His letter to Nixon called Calley's trial and sentence for mass murder at My Lai "horrendous" and "an affront to any national sense of honor or justice."

He wrote, "Our national schizophrenia has hit a new low when first we participate in war crime trials with ex post facto laws and convict military officers for killing even though under military orders and then we refuse to allow our soldiers to disobey orders that they feel are immoral . . . and we refuse

King's Food Loses Money For First Time

King's Food Host U.S.A., in a financial report to stockholders and employees, reported an operating loss for the period ending Feb. 1, 1971, the first loss the company has experienced, company President L. C. Price announced.

The period, covering a 40-week period from May 1, 1970, to Feb. 1, 1971, showed a net sales income of over $15 million, an increase of almost $2 million from a similar 40-week period in 1970. The period ended, however, with a net loss of $37,000, a two-cent loss per share for stockholders.

Price said management reorganization has been implemented with new programs related to food costs and labor control. The company also has discontinued Crown Jewel Investment, "which had the effect of stretching the organization resources further than we find desirable," Price said.

Hansen Thinks Lincoln Needs Reserve Power

City Council candidate Richard Hansen urged the city to find a suitable alternative for reserve power before closing the A St. plant.

Hansen said that "no power and no water" may well be the situation the next time Lincoln has a power failure. He based his statement on the contention that there will not be enough power to maintain water pressure because of the closing of the plant.

The plant in the past has provided power for pumping water. The city recently closed the power-producing facility as uneconomical, intending to use power from the Nebraska Public Power District for all city needs.

"Granted that the useful life of the plant has ended so far as ordinary power is concerned, the plant becomes a vital necessity for supplying enough power to maintain water pressure during blackouts. If a major fire should occur during a blackout, the low water pressure might well cost thousands of dollars in property loss and conceivably loss of life," he said.

393rd Dead GI From Nebraska To Be Honored

Gov. J. James Exon announced Friday the flags at the Capitol Building and governor's mansion will fly at half-staff Monday in memory of Army Spec. 4 John D. Heinz of Lincoln, killed in Vietnam.

The Defense Department lists Heinz as the 393rd soldier from Nebraska to die in action in Southeast Asia.

Panel To Decide On Budget Next Week

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee expects to wrap up its decisions on the state operational budget next week, but its recommendations won't be reported to the floor until after the Easter recess.

This timetable was indicated Friday by Chairman Richard D. Marvel, who said the major decisions remaining are those on the budgets of the University of Nebraska and the state colleges.

The Unicameral plans to adjourn next Wednesday for an Easter recess, resuming its work on the following Tuesday.

In executive session Friday, the committee reviewed the governor's recommendations for capital construction for NU and the colleges with officials of the institutions.

For the next biennium, Gov. J.

James Exon has recommended capital outlay for general fund money of $9.6 million for NU's three major campuses and $2.2 million for the state colleges.

Exon's total capital budget for all agencies is $14.9 million in general fund money with $5.4 million earmarked for fiscal 1971-72 and $9.4 million for the following year.

The committee made no decisions Friday regarding the capital construction budgets, and Marvel indicated the committee probably will complete the state operational budget before tackling the capital construction phase.

It is believed the committee may submit its recommendations for capital outlay separate from the general state budget for the next fiscal year.

Decision Left To Committee On DeCamp War Resolution

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, said Friday he will wait instructions from his committee as to whether it wishes to schedule a public hearing on a Vietnam war resolution assigned to it for recommendation.

Luedtke said the committee will schedule a hearing on LB895, a pending DeCamp bill to write common law guarantees of the right of self-defense into the statutes.

Man Hospitalized In Gas Explosion

Dale Capps, of 2535 No. Cotner, was hospitalized in "good" condition at Providence Hospital with first and second-degree burns over 15% of his body Friday afternoon after he was injured in a fire in a garage behind his home.

Witnesses said that Capps had just come home from having a propane gas tank filled and had gone into the garage when the tank apparently exploded.

Extensive damage was caused to the garage, its contents and a pickup truck parked near the garage.

Legion Urges Calley Letter Writing Effort

The Nebraska American Legion urged Friday that a letter writing campaign be conducted to help secure executive clemency for Lt. William L. Calley Jr.

Calley was convicted by a military court martial at Ft. Benning, Ga., Monday of premeditated murder in the deaths of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai.

In a statement, American Legion Commander Lou Adams urged the letter writing campaign "in the interest of the morale and future effectiveness of the armed forces."

Adams said the Calley conviction, if allowed to stand, would have "an adverse effect in securing citizens to serve their country and will very possibly influence present servicemen to disregard orders to serve in actual combat."

The Legion also said it feels Calley was "practically tried and convicted prior to being brought to trial."

The Legion urged all Nebraskans to write or wire the state congressional delegation and President Nixon.

Strengthening Merit Selection Of Judges Urged

Gov. J. James Exon Friday told a Law Day luncheon that the merit system for selecting judges in Nebraska should be strengthened.

The composition of judicial nominating commissions should be altered, he suggested, by giving lay members a 4-2 edge over lawyers. Each segment now has three members on the commissions.

The seventh member is a Supreme Court justice, who is automatic chairman. Exon suggested that the commission should be permitted to choose its own chairman.

Thomas Davies of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Bar Association, told the governor that the bar "will back you on your merit system plan."

The resolution, No. 32, sponsored by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, was sent to the committee for action.

But Luedtke said he will not schedule a hearing until the committee meets to determine how it wishes to proceed.

The resolution would urge Congress to cut off funding for the war and seek complete withdrawal of U.S. troops by April 1, 1972.

DeCamp, a Vietnam war veteran, is a member of the judiciary unit.

Other members, in addition to Luedtke, are Sens. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, Fred Carstensen of Beatrice, Walter Epke of York, P. J. Morgan of Omaha and Harold Simpson of Lincoln.

Man Hospitalized In Gas Explosion

Dale Capps, of 2535 No. Cotner, was hospitalized in "good" condition at Providence Hospital with first and second-degree burns over 15% of his body Friday afternoon after he was injured in a fire in a garage behind his home.

Witnesses said that Capps had just come home from having a propane gas tank filled and had gone into the garage when the tank apparently exploded.

Extensive damage was caused to the garage, its contents and a pickup truck parked near the garage.

Court: Firm Not Bound By Agent's Oral Promise

By United Press International
The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled Friday a business cannot be held responsible for the oral promises of its agents when a written contract specifically limits their authority.

In making the ruling, the high court reversed and ordered dismissal of the Douglas County District Court action in a suit filed by Robert Dembrowski against Central Construction Co. The high court said the dispute centered around an oral agreement made by a salesman for the firm to use the Dembrowski home as a model for a siding job and installation of aluminum doors and windows.

Rebate Promised
Each sale resulting from the use of the home as a model would result in a rebate to Dembrowski and he would probably not have to pay anything, the high court said the salesman promised.

But the contract signed by Dembrowski carried a clause that said "no agent or contractor is authorized to make any agreement with the owner either concerning the use of the owner's home as a 'model home' or concerning any payments," the court noted.

During the lower court trial, Dembrowski had said he knew about the provision and understood it at the time he signed, the court said.

The contractor had no apparent knowledge of the "fraudulent" promises made by the agent, the Supreme Court ruled, and therefore could not be bound to them.

Dissenting Vote
The high court ruling drew one dissenting vote, however, from Justice Harry Spencer. He said he felt the company should have been held to the promise made by the salesman.

In other decisions, the court:

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court conviction of Anthon Jay Rodgers for burglary.

—Reversed and sent back to Hall County District Court for retrial a contract dispute between Gier Molkus Construction Co. Inc. and the Hall County Museum.

—Upheld the Clay County District Court damage suit award of $55,000 to Radford Jones in a suit filed against Consumers Cooperative Propane.

—Upheld the Lancaster County District Court conviction of Douglas Rhodes for issuing insufficient fund checks.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Saturday

Actress Bette Davis is fond of pointing out that, "I am an Aries and so I like to be first in everything I do — a leader." Miss Davis is knowledgeable about astrology and is a delight to talk to on this subject.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Past investments now can bear fruit — applies to time as well as money. Experience will pay dividends. Some family members may prove irritable. Go with the tide. Be adaptable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some obstacles are removed. There is greater freedom of thought, action. Ideas are developed, contacts are made. You are able to expand views and publicize projects.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Spotlight on income, personal possessions. One born under Leo proves a delight. But heed your own counsel. Don't permit another's charm to steer you in erroneous direction.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Cycle moves up; you get what you go after, but be sure you know what it is actually need. Improve appearance; purchase apparel. Brighten surroundings. Invite guests.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): One born under Gemini can help you fulfill some hopes, wishes. Accent on glamor, clandestine arrangements. Have fun but don't drown out voice of conscience. Message will be clear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis on desires. Romance is in picture. But try to remember basic commitments — to others and yourself. Check details of utopian plan. There could be a basic flaw.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A change now could enhance reputation. If you insist on adhering to outmoded concept, you will lose. The choice is your own. This also applies to personal relationships.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A change in domestic situation is indicated. Strive for greater harmony; make basic concessions. Open communication lines. One at a distance may have important news. Be receptive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): One you respect has special request. Grant it — if within reason. Money or legal area may be involved — so are emotions. See facts as they exist. You are in better position than may be imagined.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Lie low; let others show their hands. Be discreet. Give special attention to marriage or partnership situation. Legal adviser needs your co-operation. You get nothing for nothing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be sure to praise those who perform special services. Basic morale is an important factor. Your general standing improves. One who has criticized does an about-face.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Some emotional clouds evaporate. You see more clearly. Issues are properly defined. Give full play to creative processes. New attitude leads to greater optimism, independence.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY by October you will be in stronger emotional and financial position. You are a natural leader, versatile and creative. You recently, however, may have been shaken by events affecting home and family situation.

Whether the hip-culture zeitgeist waxes or wanes from its current low energy level during the coming few years, at least one cornerstone of its life and manners obviously has become well set in American society overall. Even if the Beatles have permanently struck set, even if there isn't another Woodstock, even if communes never catch on, we can be sure, reassured or nay, that widespread smoking of grass in social circles to which it was foreign a short while back, will continue.

There is, as yet, no fully reliable statistical evidence to support this contention. The public meets only those marijuana aficionados whose ac-ivities have drawn the attention of the law (about 15,000 are in jail at the moment, at the most, a small minority of the specie group. Statistical studies among specific categories of people, college students, for instance, sometimes reveal part of the picture.

But the best barometers available at the moment are more on the order of sociological parables, small, specific pieces of recent data that tend to outline the real nature of the situation.

Fact is, dope smoking is by now a pretty much institutionalized affair.

In 1966, when a white, middle-class kid decided to discover and experience grass, he got in his car and drove to some place like Chicago or Kansas City and scored two match boxes (a few grams) of it and took it back home for personal use, thinking he had struck a heavy blow against the odds.

Historic Broadcast

On Dec. 4, 1970, it surely became clear to everyone that that level of innocence had gone by. KSNB in San Francisco chose this afternoon for an historic broadcast.

The age of haphazard individual entrepreneurship was rung out with the formal presentation of "Grass Masters" ready-rolled joints (marijuana cigarettes, that is) to the dopamine public. A spokesman for a cartel of bay area dealers operating collectively under the name of Felix the Cat, announced that after months of effort, plans to market 5,000 full cartons of their standardized product in test markets on the West Coast were seeing fruition. Unlike customary approximate ounce and kilogram measures, which come from a variety of sources and may be of any quality from dynamite to oregano, the Grass Masters cartons were said to consist of 10 packs of 18 joints, each filter tipped and rolled to regular cigarette specifications, blended from controlled Mexican, Central American and North African stocks.

Initial prices were at $50 per carton, $5 per pack. Distribution rights went to 320 neighborhood dealers, authorized to sell the GM weed only at factory rates.

STEVEN LEVINE
Recent Data

(the factories are in Berkeley, San Francisco, and Mexico, somewhere). The corporation had $50,000 in legal funds available, so the spokesman said, and it intended to render marijuana de facto legal by eventually making strictu against it pro forma unenforceable. Turning over $250,000 monthly in its early operations, the Felix folks claimed to already be on their way to the achievement of that goal.

Still, the whole affair smacked of canard to me at the time. It all seemed just droll enough to be a baroque bayside freak put-on.

Said Accurate

That is, until GM joints started showing up in local markets out here last month. Informed sources are, by thunder, quoted as saying that the company's bold promotional claims are accurate.

Indeed, a little digging reveals that even Felix the Cat, was predated as an organized grass dealing outfit by a mysterious combine called the Kaw Valley Dope Dealers Union of Lawrence, Kansas (sometimes known as the Pitt River Rats), a coalition of harvesters and distributors who work out of the dark, fertile cannabis growing earth of the Midwest, producing much of the country's supply of domestic smoke.

These efforts, though technically organized crime, are not be confused with traditional syndicate-type smuggling and sales. The Mafia, for some odd reason, has never deigned to handle marijuana on any but the most dilettantish scale. Felix and Kaw Valley are, pardon me, home-grown efforts. They are owned and run by members of the community that patronizes them. That that community is rather broad is apparent from the awesome fiscal numbers involved. Grass is an industry, for some part of the hip community, a basic industry.

Interestingly, 700,000,000 cigarette papers are now sold in the United States annually, a spectacular hundreds of per cent rise over five years ago, in no way correlating with the moderate rise in sales of roll-your-own tobacco. Ancillary equipment for the convenience of grass smokers is selling like light machinery parts. In this city alone, more than two dozen shops deal in roach clips (reverse tweezers used for holding the smoldering butt of a joint), fancy pipes, rollers, scales, cleaning devices and other such civilizing paraphernalia. I would hardly be surprised if polyethylene bags proved to be enjoying a minor boom resulting from their use as customary grass packaging.

Wide Use

Logically, all this suggests a far-flung doping constituency. Hard-core hippies, those who live every day in every way the stone-rat-broke life of the streets, could not support on their $50-a-month incomes this Babel of reefer industrialism. One finds that grass is in demand of late in vastly more diverse environments. Young professionals, lawyers, doctors, airline personnel (gulp!), junior execs, housewives, soldiers, civil servants (juvenile court employees), yes, even some cops are taking it. Commentator

Nicholas Von Hoffman points out that grass is smoked by millions of the Justice Department, smoked in the hallowed halls of Watergate. With neither the approval nor the express censure of medical research, a lot of people in all kinds of circumstances have decided that grass is harmless and that they want it, making it a part of the general life of the nation, even parts of the population that remain implacably hostile to the politics that have at times been attached to it.

Though that political stigmatization virtually precludes the full legalization of marijuana for perhaps a decade to come, it has not prevented the Volstead Act-like institutionalized flouting of the proscriptions against it. For part of a sub-culture to be assimilated into the broader scope of activities around it, narrowly defined political and moral stances governing participation in it must be greatly softened on the 12th floor at Time-Life suggests that kind of greening for the grass phenomenon. It also gainsays the revolutionary value of dope rather finally. It's possible to be high without being high-minded.

So, ironically, all panic and propaganda aside, one of the things the counter-culture leaves behind is the probably medically and certainly politically benign popularity of a tough green weed indigenous to every continent and by now, to every social stratum as well.

If grass replaces the fiery madness of alcohol as the national intoxicant, the attitude of the country may eventually become less harsh. Or it may not change at all, or it may become entirely different in some unthought-of abstract way. At the very least, it seems likely that we're going to have some degree of chance to find out.

A veteran news photographer and now a member of the Nebraska Legislature, John Savage of Omaha, was the first award of merit in news photography from the School of Journalism at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Friday morning.

Prof. R. Neale Copple, director of the school, presented the plaque for "excellence in news photography" along with a large color photograph of Savage at work in his new position in the Nebraska Legislature.

The presentation was made at the opening session of a news photography workshop attended by representatives of 30 Nebraska newspapers.

"No other man in the business has taken as many news pictures of University of Nebraska sports as has John Savage," Copple said in presenting the award. "Through this award and those to be presented in the future, we hope to recognize the efforts of news photographers."

Savage retired last year from the Omaha World-Herald, climaxed a news career which extended over 48 years. While attending the University of Nebraska, he became the Lincoln correspondent for the Omaha Bee. He began taking pictures for the Omaha Bee in 1934 and joined the World-Herald in 1937. He has photographed Cornhusker sports for 35 years including the major football bowl appearances.

Last year he received a professional achievement award from Creighton University and was elected to represent the 10th District in the Nebraska Legislature.

SPEAKING OUT:

Widespread Smoking Of Grass Will Continue

By STEVEN LEVINE

Whether the hip-culture zeitgeist waxes or wanes from its current low energy level during the coming few years, at least one cornerstone of its life and manners obviously has become well set in American society overall. Even if the Beatles have permanently struck set, even if there isn't another Woodstock, even if communes never catch on, we can be sure, reassured or nay, that widespread smoking of grass in social circles to which it was foreign a short while back, will continue.

There is, as yet, no fully reliable statistical evidence to support this contention. The public meets only those marijuana aficionados whose activities have drawn the attention of the law (about 15,000 are in jail at the moment, at the most, a small minority of the specie group. Statistical studies among specific categories of people, college students, for instance, sometimes reveal part of the picture.

But the best barometers available at the moment are more on the order of sociological parables, small, specific pieces of recent data that tend to outline the real nature of the situation.

Fact is, dope smoking is by now a pretty much institutionalized affair.

In 1966, when a white, middle-class kid decided to discover and experience grass, he got in his car and drove to some place like Chicago or Kansas City and scored two match boxes (a few grams) of it and took it back home for personal use, thinking he had struck a heavy blow against the odds.

Historic Broadcast

On Dec. 4, 1970, it surely became clear to everyone that that level of innocence had gone by. KSN in San Francisco chose this afternoon for an historic broadcast.

The age of haphazard individual entrepreneurship was rung out with the formal presentation of "Grass Masters" ready-rolled joints (marijuana cigarettes, that is) to the dope-buying public. A spokesman for a cartel of bay area dealers operating collectively under the name of Felix the Cat, announced that after months of effort, plans to market 5,000 full cartons of their standardized product in test markets on the West Coast were seeing fruition. Unlike customary approximate ounce and kilogram measures, which come from a variety of sources and may be of any quality from dynamite to oregano, the Grass Masters cartons were said to consist of 10 packs of 18 joints, each filter tipped and rolled to regular cigarette specifications, blended from controlled Mexican, Central American and North African stocks.

Initial prices were at $50 per carton, $5 per pack. Distribution rights went to 320 neighborhood dealers, authorized to sell the GM weed only at factory rates

STEVEN LEVINE
Recent Data

(the factories are in Berkeley, San Francisco, and Mexico, somewhere). The corporation had $50,000 in legal funds available, so the spokesman said, and it intended to render marijuana de facto legal by eventually making strict against it pro forma unenforceable. Turning over $250,000 monthly in its early operations, the Felix folks claimed to already be on their way to the achievement of that goal.

Still, the whole affair smacked of canard to me at the time. It all seemed just droll enough to be a baroque bayside freak put-on.

Said Accurate

That is, until GM joints started showing up in local markets out here last month. Informed sources are, by thunder, quoted as saying that the company's bold promotional claims are accurate.

Indeed, a little digging reveals that even Felix the Cat, was predated as an organized grass dealing outfit by a mysterious combine called the Kaw Valley Dope Dealers Union of Lawrence, Kansas (sometimes known as the Pitt River Rats), a coalition of harvesters and distributors who work out of the dark, fertile cannabis growing earth of the Middlewest, producing much of the country's supply of domestic smoke.

These efforts, though technically organized crime, are not to be confused with traditional syndicate-type smuggling and sales. The Mafia, for some odd reason, has never deigned to handle marijuana on any but the most dilettantish scale. Felix and Kaw Valley are, pardon me, home-grown efforts. They are owned and run by members of the community that patronizes them. That that community is rather broad is apparent from the awesome fiscal numbers involved. Grass is an industry, for some part of the hip community, a basic industry. Interestingly, 700,000,000 cigarette papers are now sold in the United States annually, a spectacular hundreds of per cent rise over five years ago, in no way correlating with the moderate rise in sales of roll-your-own tobacco. Ancillary equipment for the convenience of grass smokers is selling like light machinery parts. In this city alone, more than two dozen shops deal in roach clips (reverse tweezers used for holding the smoldering butt of a joint), fancy pipes, rollers, scales, cleaning devices and other such civilizing paraphernalia. I would hardly be surprised if polyethylene bags proved to be enjoying a minor boom resulting from their use as customary grass packaging.

Wide Use

Logically, all this suggests a far-flung doping constituency. Hard-core hippies, those who live every day in every way the stone-rat-broke life of the streets, could not support on their $50-a-month incomes this Babel of reefer industrialism. One finds that grass is in demand of late in vastly more diverse environments. Young professionals, lawyers, doctors, airline personnel (gulp!), junior execs, housewives, soldiers, civil servants (juvenile court employees), yes, even some cops are taking it. Commentator

Nicholas Von Hoffman points out that grass is smoked by millions of the Justice Department, smoked in the hallowed halls of Watergate. With neither the approval nor the express censure of medical research, a lot of people in all kinds of circumstances have decided that grass is harmless and that they want it, making it a part of the general life of the nation, even parts of the population that remain implacably hostile to the politics that have at times been attached to it.

Though that political stigmatization virtually precludes the full legalization of marijuana for perhaps a decade to come, it has not prevented the Volstead-Act-like institutionalized flouting of the prescriptions against it. For part of a sub-culture to be assimilated into the broader scope of activities around it, narrowly defined political and moral stances governing participation in it must be greatly softened and the stash in the desk drawer on the 12th floor at Time-Life suggests that kind of greening for the grass phenomenon. It also gainsays the revolutionary value of dope rather finally. It's possible to be high without being high-minded.

So, ironically, all panic and propaganda aside, one of the things the counter-culture leaves behind is the probably medically and certainly politically benign popularity of a tough green weed indigenous to every continent and by now, to ever social stratum as well.

If grass replaces the fiery madness of alcohol as the national intoxicant, the attitudinal set of the country may eventually become less harsh. Or it may not change at all, or it may become entirely different in some unthought-of abstract way. At the very least, it seems likely that we're going to have some degree of change to find out.

News Photography Award Presented To John Savage

A veteran news photographer and now a member of the Nebraska Legislature, John Savage of Omaha, received the first award of merit in news photography from the School of Journalism at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Friday morning.

Prof. R. Neale Copple, director of the school, presented the plaque for "excellence in news photography" along with a large color photograph of Savage at work in his new position in the Nebraska Legislature.

The presentation was made at the opening session of a news photography workshop attended by representatives of 30 Nebraska newspapers.

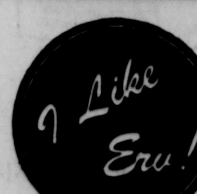

"No other man in the business has taken as many news pictures of University of Nebraska sports as has John Savage," Copple said in presenting the award. "Through this award and those to be presented in the future, we hope to recognize the efforts of news photographers."

Savage retired last year from the Omaha World-Herald, a news career which extended over 48 years. While attending the University of Nebraska, he became the Lincoln correspondent for the Omaha Bee. of cars and dates

Let's talk a moment, parent to parent. . . .

It's quite an adjustment, isn't it? Your daughter, Jill, is on cloud nine because Jack asked her for a date. Jack's driving his dad's car. That is, you hope he drives it. Maybe he just aims it and takes off.

Yes, it's quite an adjustment. And all the books say there's nothing you can do about it. Kids date. So, watch television, read a book, listen for the muffled "Good nights" and the click of the doorlatch, then stop worrying and go to sleep. Until her next date. . . .

The churches of our community have no simple solution for this problem. They have a complex solution: Through moral and religious training, develop in every boy and girl a mature sense of responsibility, a respect for life and Christian character.

The young people we'll have the greatest confidence in tomorrow are going to church today.

The world has entered a new stage of history, the age of the maturity of man and the beginning of a world civilization. The source of this new development was a Man who was exiled, tortured, banished and imprisoned for more than 40 years. He lived during the last century. His name —
Bahá'u'lláh
THE PROMISE OF CHRIST FULFILLED
Bahá'u'lláh is the latest in the succession of Divine Messengers sent by God since the beginning of man's existence. He is the Promised One of all religions. His coming ushers in the Age of Fulfillment mentioned in all the prophecies of the past. Bahá'u'lláh brings God's Plan for world peace, world justice and world unity.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one or two key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

CHL Finals Beginning In Omaha

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Omaha and Dallas don't believe in wasting time.

The two Central Hockey League foes, who faceoff tonight at 8 in Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum in the opening game of the playoff finals, both had relatively easy times in disposing of their semifinal opponents. The Blackhawks swept past Fort Worth in four straight tilts while the Knights toppled Oklahoma City in four consecutive games after dropping the first encounter.

While romping to the league title for the second straight season, coach Fred Shero's Omahans had difficulty against the Dallas crew in the Texas city. Omaha scored five wins and one tie here, but won only once, lost four matches and tied one at Dallas.

"They're (Dallas) a big team and they hit pretty hard," says Knight publicist Curt Gordon. "and we've had trouble with them down there."

Gordon said the two teams play at Dallas on April 7 and 10 and then won't return to Omaha until April 14 since an ice show occupies Ak-Sar-Ben until April 11 and the arena can't be prepared for hockey until the 14th. If additional games are required in the best-of-seven match for the Adams Cup, the fifth game is set for April 16 at Omaha, the sixth for the 17th in Dallas and the seventh contest is scheduled for Ak-Sar-Ben April 19.

The Knights, bidding to become the first CHL squad to win back-to-back league and playoff titles, have sparked at Ak-Sar-Ben. They compiled a 31-3-2 record during the regular season and, counting two wins and one loss against Oklahoma City in semifinal action, stand at 33-3-2 this season. On the road, they eclipsed the .500 mark with a 16-13-9 slate that includes two playoff wins against the Blazers.

Shero, who coached the Buffalo Bisons to the American Hockey League regular season and playoff crowns last season, has four weapons to toss at the Blackhawks. Besides the league's three top scorers, he also possesses one of the CHL's premier defensemen.

Pierre Jarri hit 46 goals and 46 assists to pace CHL shooters, while Mike Parizeau blasted 35 goals and 49 assists for 84 points and Gerry Ouellette connected on 23 goals and 58 assists for 81 points. Rugged Andre Dupont provides a compensating element for the lighter, swifter wings with his 200-pounds and "policeman tactics."

Coach Bob Kromm's Blackhawks finished the regular season 21 points back of the Knights. By comparison, Omaha outscored its opponents 312-216 while Dallas clipped its foes 276-246 during the regular campaign.

-WEATHER CUT BUYERS- Two Rivers Trout Fee Hike Rescinded

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

The 70 anglers who visited Two Rivers special use area during opening day activities Thursday received a pleasant surprise when they found that the attorney general had ruled against a commission proposed price increase in trout fees and the price for the trout tags would remain the same for this year.

The Game and Parks Commission had decided in their last meeting to change the price of trout tags from a flat rate of $1.50 per person to $2 for adults and $1 for those under 16 years of age.

The attorney general's office, however, said the commission's action was against existing statutes necessitating the fees to remain the same for the rest of the year.

The discrepancy, according to director Willard Barbee, came

—CITY RECORDS FALL—

Links Win City Relay Track Meet

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

TEAM SCORING

Lincoln High	96	East	39
Northeast	57 1/2	Plus X	18
Southwest	5 1/2

Ken Adkins, Ralph Henderson and Steve Moore, a talented trio of speedsters, combined with double-event winning weightman Mike Freeman to pace Lincoln High to victory in the annual Lincoln City Relay track meet at East High Friday afternoon.

Despite a blustery and chilling wind seven records fell. Adkins, Henderson and Moore were joined by Stan Dowd in snapping both shuttle hurdle marks, Freeman eclipsed the discus record while Southeast and Northeast each claimed a pair.

Southeast's Steve Brittenham was the only individual double record-setter, leaping in mid-season form to a 22-7/8 long jump and 42-9/16 in the triple jump.

A Northeast quartet of Alan Belka, Randy Leach, Bernie Olsen and Ron Greeno lowered the distance medley standard, and Rocket distance ace Cliff Karthaus captured the two mile run — the only track event contested on an individual basis — in record time.

In addition to his participation on the two hurdle teams, Adkins won the high jump and was third in both the long and triple jumps. Henderson was second in both jumps, while Moore was even busier. He was fourth in both the long and triple and also was a member of the winning 440-yard relay team in addition to the two hurdle successes.

The closest finish of the day came in the longest race when Lincoln High's Ted Eckert, Gary Hunt, Jerry Wolford and Dave Hudson combined to nip Northeast by a tenth of a second after 16 laps of the four-mile relay.

Freeman broke the oldest record when he sailed the discus 154-7, besting the 151-10 established by the Links' John Walter in 1966.

Lincoln High, in piling up its winning points, claimed a blue ribbon finish in five of the nine relay events and also the top place in three of the seven individual specialties.

Northeast edged Southeast for the runnerup spot on the basis of three relay victories to go with Karthaus's two-mile win, while Southeast, though shut out of a triumph in the relays, saw Jim Unger win the pole vault. Combined with Brittenham's double the Knights thus garnered three firsts.

East, though without a team or individual victory, out-distanced Plus X. The 'Bolts ran away from the field in the 880 relay when Bryan Roselle, Lynn Finney, Dave Dadenburger and Paul Nevels sped to a 1:35.4 clocking to take the remaining first place medal.

Fillies Favored In Fonner Feature Field

. . . MISS SPY SONG, SUSAN B. HEAD LIST FOR ELKS HANDICAP TODAY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Grand Island — The best of Fonner Park's 3-year-old class will go to the post here today in the $3,000 Grand Island Elks Handicap with a couple of fillies expected to lead the charge to the wire in the 6 furlong sprint.

Miss Spy Song, making her first start of the 1971 campaign, and Susan B., a longshot winner in the Ray Baxter Memorial Handicap here on opening day, are expected to draw the most attention at the pari-mutuel windows, but the likes of White Man, Navareigh and Lincoln's Miss also are favorites with Nebraska racing fans.

Miss Spy Song, who won $27,005 as a 2-year-old for owners Don Clugston and former Nebraska basketball star Rex Ekwall of Omaha, has been assigned top weight of 120 pounds by racing secretary Dean Williams and will thus be giving from two to 10 pounds to her seven rivals.

Among her 2-year-old and the Centennial Park Ak-Sar-Ben Countess Stakes triumphs were victories in the Lassie Stakes in Denver.

That 118 is 10 more than Susan B. carried in breaking her maiden here on opening day, rewarding backers with payoffs of $3.20, 4.00 and 2.40.

She won that one by six lengths over Navareigh, who was 1 1/4 lengths in front of Lincoln's Miss with a 1:08 3-5 clocking for the 5 1/4 furlongs.

In six starts this year, Susan B. has been in the money five times with four seconds before picking up the first win of her career.

OK Farm's Navareigh won three of 15 starts as a 2-year-old with winnings of $12,131 and Travis Evans' Lincoln's Miss was a winner in five of nine outs for $20,015 last season.

Her third place finish in the Baxter Memorial was her first placing in the money in three starts as a 3-year-old.

Dave King will be aboard Susan B. with Kenneth Jones up on Miss Spy Song, Fred Ecoffey on Navareigh, carrying 117 pounds, and Larry Turner on Lincoln's Miss with an impost of 115.

Navareigh ran second to Al

Richardson's White Man in a $2,100 allowance race at 6 furlongs here a week ago on a slow track.

White Man won that one by six lengths for his first win in five starts this season after winning three of 12 last season for $12,450.

Others in the feature field today are William Stiles' Sadairs Camp at 113 pounds and George Hallock's Wise Crete at 111.

At Fonner Park Friday, Meadland rallied to claim a half-length decision from Merry Kem in winning the featured Lincoln Races purse in a 6-furlong allowance scamper.

The brown mare scored her first victory this season after two unsuccessful starts with a 1:12.35 clocking. Pipe Smoker led from the break, but Meadland and Merry Kem caught the colt in the stretch run.

Meadland, piloted by Dave King, returned $5.00, $3.60 and $2.80, while Merry Kem paid $7.00 and $4.00 and Pipe Smoker produced $4.20.

CHL Finals Beginning In Omaha

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer
Omaha — Omaha and Dallas don't believe in wasting time.

The two Central Hockey League foes, who faceoff tonight at 8 in Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum in the opening game of the playoff finals, both had relatively easy times in disposing of their semifinal opponents. The Blackhawks swept past Fort Worth in four straight tilts while the Knights toppled Oklahoma City in four consecutive games after dropping the first encounter.

While romping to the league title for the second straight season, coach Fred Shero's Omahans had difficulty against the Dallas crew in the Texas city. Omaha scored five wins and one tie here, but won only once, lost four matches and tied one at Dallas.

"They're (Dallas) a big team and they hit pretty hard," says Knight publicist Curt Gordon, "and we've had trouble with them down there."

Gordon said the two teams play at Dallas on April 7 and 10 and then won't return to Omaha until April 14 since an ice show occupies Ak-Sar-Ben until April 11 and the arena can't be prepared for hockey until the 14th. If additional games are required in the best-of-seven match for the Adams Cup, the fifth game is set for April 16 at Omaha, the sixth for the 17th in Dallas and the seventh contest is scheduled for Ak-Sar-Ben April 19.

The Knights, bidding to become the first CHL squad to win back-to-back league and playoff titles, have sparked at Ak-Sar-Ben. They compiled a 31-3-2 record during the regular season and, counting two wins and one loss against Oklahoma City in semifinal action, stand at 33-3-2 this season. On the road, they eclipsed the 500 mark with a 16-13-9 slate that includes two playoff wins against the Blazers.

Shero, who coached the Buffalo Bison to the American Hockey League regular season and playoff crowns last season, has four weapons to toss at the Blackhawks. Besides the league's three top scorers, he also possesses one of the CHL's premier defencemen.

Pierre Jarro hit 46 goals and 46 assists to pace CHL shooters, while Mike Parizeau blasted 35 goals and 49 assists for 84 points and Gerry Ouellette connected on 23 goals and 58 assists for 81 points. Rugged Andre Dupont provides a compensating element for the lighter, swifter wings with his 200-pounds and "policeman" tactics.

Coach Bob Kromm's Blackhawks finished the regular season 21 points back of the Knights. By comparison, Omaha outscored its opponents 321-216 while Dallas clipped its foes 276-246 during the regular campaign.

—WEATHER CUT BUYERS— Two Rivers Trout Fee Hike Rescinded

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

The 70 anglers who visited Two Rivers special use area during opening day activities Thursday received a pleasant surprise when they found that the attorney general had ruled against a commission proposed price increase in trout fees and the price for the trout tags would remain the same for this year.

The Game and Parks Commission had decided in their last meeting to change the price of trout tags from a flat rate of $1.50 per person to $2 for adults and $1 for those under 16 years of age. The attorney general's office, however, said the commission's action was against existing statutes necessitating the fees to remain the same for the rest of the year.

The discrepancy, according to director Willard Barbee, came

Fillies Favored In Fonner Feature Field

. . . MISS SPY SONG, SUSAN B. HEAD LIST FOR ELKS PAIRCAP TODAY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor
Grand Island — The best of Fonner Park's 3-year-old class will go to the post here today in the $3,000 Grand Island Elks Handicap with a couple of fillies expected to lead the charge to the wire in the 6 furlong sprint.

Miss Spy Song, making her first start of the 1971 campaign, and Susan B., a longshot winner in the Ray Baxter Memorial Handicap here on opening day, are expected to draw the most attention at the pari-mutuel windows, but the likes of White Man, Navareigh and Lincoln's Miss also are favorites with Nebraska racing fans.

Miss Spy Song, who won $27,005 as a 2-year-old for owners Don Clugston and former Nebraska basketball star Rex Ekwall of Omaha, has been assigned top weight of 120 pounds by racing secretary Dean Williams and will thus be giving from two to 10 pounds to her seven rivals.

Among her 2-year-old and the Centennial Park Ak-Sar-Ben Countess Stakes triumphs were victories in the Lassie Stakes in Denver.

That 118 is 10 more than Susan B. carried in breaking her maiden here on opening day, rewarding backers with payoffs of $8,200, 4,000 and 2,400.

She won that one by six lengths over Navareigh, who was 1 1/4 lengths in front of Lincoln's Miss with a 1:08 3/5 clocking for the 5 1/2 furlongs.

In six starts this year, Susan B. has been in the money five times with four seconds before picking up the first win of her career.

OK Farm's Navareigh won three of 15 starts as a 2-year-old with winnings of $12,131 and Travis Evans' Lincoln's Miss was a winner in five of nine outs for $20,015 last season.

Her third place finish in the Baxter Memorial was her first placing in the money in three starts as a 3-year-old.

Dave King will be aboard Susan B. with Kenneth Jones up on Miss Spy Song, Fred Ecoffey on Navareigh, carrying 117 pounds, and Larry Turner on Lincoln's Miss with an impost of 115.

Navareigh ran second to Al

Richardson's White Man in a $2,100 allowance race at 6 furlongs here a week ago on a slow track.

White Man won that one by six lengths for his first win in five starts this season after winning three of 12 last season for $12,450.

Others in the feature field today are William Stiles' Sadairs Champ at 113 pounds and George Hallock's Wise Crete at 111.

At Fonner Park Friday, Meadland rallied to claim a half-length decision from Merry Kem in winning the featured Lincoln Races purse in a 6-furlong allowance scamper.

The brown mare scored her first victory this season after two unsuccessful starts with a 1:12.35 clocking. Pipe Smoker led from the break, but Meadland and Merry Kem caught the colt in the stretch run.

Meadland, piloted by Dave King, returned $5.60, $3.60 and $2.80, while Merry Kem paid $7.00 and $4.00 and Pipe Smoker produced $4.20.

NU SPLITS WITH HOUSTON

—CITY RECORDS FALL— Links Win City Relay Track Meet

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

TEAM SCORING
Lincoln High 39 1/2
Northeast 37 5/8
Southeast 33 1/2

Ken Adkins, Ralph Henderson and Steve Moore, a talented trio of speedsters, combined with double-event winning weightman Mike Freeman to pace Lincoln High to victory in the annual Lincoln City Relay track meet at East High Friday afternoon.

Despite a blustery and chilling wind seven records fell. Adkins, Henderson and Moore were joined by Stan Dowd in snapping both shuttle hurdle marks, Freeman eclipsed the discus record while Southeast and Northeast each claimed a pair.

Southeast's Steve Brittenham was the only individual double record-setter, leaping in mid-season form to a 22-7 1/4 long jump and 42-9 1/2 in the triple jump.

A Northeast quartet of Alan Belka, Randy Leach, Bernie Olsen and Ron Greeno lowered the distance medley standard, and Rocket distance ace Cliff Karthaus captured the two mile run—the only track event contested on an individual basis—in record time.

In addition to his participation on the two hurdle teams, Adkins won the high jump and was third in both the long and triple jumps. Henderson was second in both jumps, while Moore was even busier. He was fourth in both the long and triple and also was a member of the winning 440-yard relay team in addition to the two hurdle successes.

The closest finish of the day came in the longest race when Lincoln High's Ted Eckert, Gary Hunt, Jerry Wolford and Dave Hudson combined to nip Northeast by a tenth of a second after 16 laps of the four-mile relay.

Freeman broke the oldest record when he sailed the discus 154-7, besting the 151-10 established by the Links' John Walter in 1968.

Lincoln High, in piling up its winning points, claimed a blue ribbon finish in five of the nine relay events and also the top place in three of the seven individual specialties.

Northeast edged Southeast for the runnerup spot on the basis of three relay victories to go with Karthaus's two-mile win, while Southeast, though shut out of a triumph in the relays, saw Jim Unger win the pole vault. Combined with Brittenham's double the Knights thus garnered three firsts.

East, though without a team or individual victory, out-distanced Pius X. The Bolts ran away from the field in the 880 relay when Bryan Roselle, Lynn Finney, Dave Dadenburger and Paul Nevels sped to a 1:35.4 clocking to take the remaining first place medal.

Texas A&M Highlights Texas Relays Running

... OSU UPSETS KANSAS STATE

Austin, Tex. (P) — Texas A&M's world-record holding 880-yard outfit, anchored by Curtis Mills, thundered to a 25-yard victory in the 44th Texas Relays Friday night in 1:22.7.

The Aggie running order was Donnie Rogers, Rocky Woods, Marvin Mills and Curtis Mills — the same group that tied the world record at 1:22.1 in the Texas Relays last year.

Marvin Mills opened up a 10-yard lead over second place Indiana and Curtis Mills, the world 400 record holder, widened it to the final 25 yards at the tape. Indiana was second in 1:25.1 and the University of Texas at El Paso was third in 1:25.4.

In an upset, Oklahoma State ended Kansas State's three-year domination in the spring medley relay on a blistering 880 anchor by Larry Rose.

Kansas State finished third, behind Louisiana State.

The winning time for OSU was 3:17.9 on the fast Tartan track in Memorial Stadium.

The Cowboys also produced a big surprise in the 440 hurdles by the upsetting of Ralph Mann.

Mann of Brigham Young, the classy world record-holder in the 440 hurdles, was thoroughly whipped. Jim Bolding of Oklahoma State and Mike Cronholm of Rice finished one-two respectively with times of 50.5.

In the only final events Friday afternoon, Raima Pihl of Brigham Young tossed the javelin 264 feet, 1 inch to win that event and Mike Louisiana of Brigham Young won the discus with a throw of 190 feet, 3 inches.

Pius X Captures Baseball Opener

A one-hit, four-inning relief performance by Tom Duden and a 2-for-4 day at the plate for Tom Rempe led Pius X to a 6-2 baseball opener win over Lincoln Southeast Friday afternoon at the Thunderbolts' diamond.

Neer's Guilty Plea Accepted

U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom Friday accepted a request by Dr. Bradley P. Neer to change Neer's plea from innocent to guilty on six counts of a 13-count federal indictment charging Neer as a co-conspirator in a scheme to defraud the State of Nebraska of $88,500.
Neer changed his plea to guilty on four counts of mail fraud, one count of transportation of stolen securities in interstate commerce and one count of conspiracy.
According to U.S. Atty. William Schraphorst, the remaining seven counts will be dismissed, including five more counts of mail fraud and two additional counts of transportation of stolen securities.

Pleaded Innocent
Neer had pleaded innocent in November 1970 to all counts of the indictment based on government allegations that he and former State Welfare Director Harold J. Strode defrauded the state of $88,500.
Appearing in federal court, Neer told Urbom that at the time, he did not consider his actions as fraudulent, but now does.
He said that he had entered an agreement with the Nebraska Welfare Department. "to perform certain services" and admitted that he "did not perform these services."
Neer said that there were certain parts of the agreement that he was not aware of.
"Unperformed Services"
The government had alleged that Neer and Strode obtained money from Nebraska for "unperformed services" in connection with a fictitious consulting firm for a purported but nonexistent federal-state model computer program.
Strode, similarly indicted by a federal grand jury, has not yet been taken into custody.
Strode was fired in April 1970 by former Gov. Norbert Tiemann after an investigation disclosed irregularities in Strode's expense account.
Resigned Next Day
Neer resigned his high-ranking position with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare the following day.

Correction
It was erroneously reported in Friday's Star that Dr. Neer had previously pleaded guilty to a 13-count federal indictment charging him with conspiring to defraud Nebraska of $88,500.
Dr. Neer had pleaded innocent to the charges in November of 1970.

He said that he had entered an agreement with the Nebraska Welfare Department. "to perform certain services" and admitted that he "did not perform these services."

Neer said that there were certain parts of the agreement that he was not aware of.

'Unperformed Services'
The government had alleged that Neer and Strode obtained money from Nebraska for "unperformed services" in connection with a fictitious consulting firm for a purported but nonexistent federal-state model computer program.

Strode, similarly indicted by a federal grand jury, has not yet been taken into custody.

Strode was fired in April 1970 by former Gov. Norbert Tiemann after an investigation disclosed irregularities in Strode's expense account.

Resigned Next Day
Neer resigned his high-ranking position with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare the following day.

The 40-year-old veterinarian could now face possible maximum penalties of five years imprisonment and $1,000 fine or both on each of the mail fraud counts, 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine on the transportation of stolen securities count and five years and $1,000 fine for conspiracy.

Urbom continued a $10,000 bond on Neer and said that sentencing would be deferred until a review could be made by a United States probation officer.

Correction
It was erroneously reported in Friday's Star that Dr. Neer had previously pleaded guilty to a 13-count federal indictment charging him with conspiring to defraud Nebraska of $88,500.

Dr. Neer had pleaded innocent to the charges in November of 1970.

Stocks Slip Back After Rally Attempt

New York (AP) — After an abortive attempt at a rally, stock market prices slipped back again Friday and drifted within the narrow range that had confined trading all week.

At the closing bell the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 0.84 to 903.04. However, the broader-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks rose 0.10 to 55.58. And advances managed to maintain a small lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Investors are just biding their time waiting for first-quarter earnings reports," said Richard Gusk of Treves & Co.

Most brokers said these reports were expected to be disappointing and that investors

Butcher Hog Prices Slump

Omaha (AP) — Hog prices were 25 to 50 cents higher on the Omaha market Friday with choice light-weight shipping type butchers at the full upturn.

Butchers weighing 190-240 lbs. brought 17.50-17.75, with two loads at 17.50. Heavier weights were priced downward to $14.50. Sows brought 14.50-15.00.

Fed cattle receipts were too light to provide a market test and prices were quotably steady.

Slaughter lambs and ewes were nominal.
